The Immovable Obstacle Gone to His Creator Intelligence in the Universe? Three Things We Know Not

BY ARTHUR BRISBANE

LEADERS OF all parties in England denounce France, and it is protested that President Hoover's ...the French government, which he will not express, would make ...t reading.

But the French know what they want, usually get it. In this case ...represent the "immovable object" and the not very irresistible force." America, England, Germany, etc., will probably accept the French viewpoint because they can't do anything else.

Some believe the desperate plight of Germany to be partly imaginary, arranged to produce financial results.

But the French don't think so.

One thing that could happen, with a real collapse in Germany, would be the rise to power of the ...cal Reds, which would mean ...e Hitler, the imitation ... might make some kind ...gression aimed at France.

FRANCE BELIEVES in being ready, and yesterday afternoon Prime Minister Laval lunched at the ministry of war with Petain and Lyautey, the two leading French marshals. Paris newspapers guess that the prime minister and the marshals discussed arrangements for taking care of anything that might happen on the German border.

The long line of forts, recently erected by France along that border, plus the great French army, plus the French air fleet, most powerful on earth, and the fleets of French submarines, could take care of anything that might happen quite easily.

"HE WAS a very decent, respectable man," his neighbors said of John Tabeek, who sat last Sunday in New York's Fifth avenue Presbyterian church, listening to the Rev. Dr. Speer. Tabeek was out of work, out of money, worst of all, out of courage. Muth verloren, es verloren besser du waerest nie geboren. He would not ask his friends and relatives to assist him further.

So he listened attentively to the sermon, wrote on a piece of paper: "I am going to meet my creator," swallowed poison and died.

That is a thing you should not do in a Fifth avenue church. Fortunately, the 400 worshipers knew nothing about it.

If a million, or ten million, imitated Tabeek, that would attract attention. But an occasional individual, going to meet his creator, makes little difference.

Did Tabeek, on the other side of the poison bottle, have an opportunity to tell anybody in authority how this world had treated him? or did he perhaps finds that nobody cared, there or here?

PROFESSOR FROST, director of the Yerkes observatory, finds indications that there exists a "mind" in the universe. He is not like the French scientist who replied to Napoleon's question concerning God: "I have no need of that hypothesis."

If a cockroach in a skyscraper could talk and say: "I believe there is somebody running this skyscraper," you would be amused.

Somebody, somewhere, in creation, is amused when one of the little germs on this earth grain of dust discovers indications of a guiding intelligence in the universe.

WHAT ARE VITAMINS? We know that we can't live without them, that they cure rickets in children, what foodstuffs contain the various vitamins, and scientists have just discovered that two of them, vitamins A and B, give off some kind of strange radiation. PARIS-TOKYO FLIERS DOWN SHORT OF GOAL

French Aviators Forced To Land in Siberia; 2,400 Miles from Destination.

ONE REPORTED INJURED

Bad Weather Prospects Keep Transatlantic Birdmen at Harbor Grace.

By The Associated Press

SHANGHAI, July 14—Joseph Lebrix and Marcel Doret, who left Le Bourget Airdrome, Paris, early Sunday on a projected 6,000 non-top flight to Tokyo, were reported in Irkutsk dispatches today to have been forced down at Nizhue Udinsk, Siberia, 2,400 miles short of their goal.

Nizhue Udinsk is 310 miles west of Irkutsk and about 3,600 miles from Paris. Dispatches said one of the fliers received an injured knee and that their plane, The Hyphen, was damaged. Whether the man injured was Lebrix or Doret or their mechanic was not stated.

The forced landing, apparently meant conclusion of the flight, for the fliers were quoted as having asked Russian aviation authorities for aerial transportation back to Moscow.

Lebrix and Dore had expected to reach Tokyo within 62 hours after their Paris take-off. Although they refused confirmation, it was generally believed their flight would take them entirely around the world in an attempt to better the record of Wiley Post, Oklahoma pilot, and Harold Gatty, Australian navigator.

Gatty and Post, in their record-shattering adventure, made a stop at Irkutsk.

Nizhue Udinsk is a small town on the trans-Siberian railroad.

TAKE-OFF DELAYED

Fliers Postpone Hop to Budapest as Weather Prospects Are Poor.

HARBOR GRACE, N. F. July 14—Prospects of bad weather prompted Alexander Magyar and George Endres, Hungarian fliers, to postpone their take-off for Budapest today. They said they would put in the day loading 630 gallons of gasoline into their plane, "Justice to Hungary," and would take off as soon as the weather cleared.

BARDON FAILS TO IDENTIFY ROBBER

Morral Bank Cashier Unable to Positively Recognize Bluffton Man.

J. H. Bardon, cashier of the Morral bank which was robbed of $2,500 Friday, failed to definitely identify Wayne Galloway, 20, of Bluffton as one of the robbers when he interviewed Galloway in prison at Findlay yesterday.

Galloway has confessed to participation in the holdup of the Van Lue bank Saturday night, Findlay authorities say. Sheriff C. C. Fye, Bardon and another Morral resident went to Findlay to interview Galloway yesterday.

Bardon said Galloway resembled the robber in stature and in general appearance but would not definitely say that Galloway was the robber who menaced him with a gun while a companion looted the bank.

Local authorities did not question Galloway, at the request of Findlay officers, who said Galloway had just confessed to the Van Lue robbery. Bardon and Sheriff Fye probably will question Galloway within a few days.

In his answers to questions of Findlay authorities, Galloway did not satisfactorily explain where he was Friday morning at the time of the holdup. Sheriff Fye said. Galloway left his home Wednesday night and was not seen until Friday noon, when he returned, shaved had a haircut, and changed his clothes, his relatives say.

INJURED EYE HALTS BOUT FOR SCHMELING

No Fight with Carnera Soon, Is Decision on Advice of Physicians.

By The Associated Press

BERLIN, July 14—Prospects of a heavyweight title match in September between Max Schmeling and Primo Carnera went glimmering today as Schmeling's oculist warned him he must refrain from boxing or training at least two or three months because of eye-trouble.

Schmeling, who returned yesterday to his home here after whipping Young Stribling in a title defense match in Cleveland July 3, complained of pain in and about his left eye. He said after the match that Stribling had stuck his gloved thumb in the eye in the first round.

Schmeling consulted specialists today and was told that he must rest completely for at least two months and probably more.

While the champion was aboard ship heading homeward, Joe Jacobs, his manager, agreed in New York to a title fight between

Teeth Lodged in Throat End Life of Army Man

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, July 14—Private Olaf Nelson of Fort Bliss, Texas, died at Walter Reed hospital early today after five unsuccessful attempts to extract from his esophagus artificial teeth he swallowed last Saturday.

The 30-year-old soldier, who was rushed across country in an army ambulance plane in a race against death, died at 7 a. m. from suffocation. He had rallied from the fifth probing for the dental bridge which caught in his throat while eating breakfast at the Texas army post and at 4 a. m. was believed better than at any time since he arrived here late yesterday.

Doctors feared septic pneumonia or a general infection but neither developed. Surgeon General Patterson of the army and Dr. James F. Mitchell, Washington surgeon, had decided the patient could stand no further probing for the teeth until he had regained strength.

Nelson was completely exhausted yesterday after Major Roy Brown and other army surgeons tried for two hours to remove the obstruction.

AWAIT CRISIS FOR DONITHEN

Peritonitis Chief Danger Faced by Local Man Following Operation.

REPORTED HOLDING OWN

Expected To Pass Critical Stage in 48 Hours; Relatives at Bedside.

Hoke Donithen, 57, local attorney and lifelong friend of President Harding, was to reach the crisis of his illness sometime today, attaches at Grant hospital, where he underwent an abdominal operation yesterday, said this morning.

Although Donithen's condition is regared extremely serious, he was reported this morning as having "held his own" last night. Friends say he rested easily all night. The chief danger today lies in the possibility of peritonitis.

The operation was performed yesterday at noon by Dr. Luke Zartman when Donithen, suffering from perforation of an intestinal ulcer, became acutely ill.

If peritonitis does not develop, he will be out of danger in 48 hours, hospital attaches said.

Close relatives of the Marion attorney went to Columbus this morning when they learned that the crisis was expected today. His nephew and law partner, Alfred, his sister, Mrs. J. W. Llewellyn, of Marion and a brother Howard of Waldo were among those who went to his bedside this morning.

Donithen had been suffering from intestinal trouble for several weeks, and Friday was taken to Grant hospital. He was considering returning to Marion when his condition became worse, calling for the emergency operation.

The serious condition of Donithen has caused much concern all over Ohio, as he is known throughout the state in political circles.

FALL TO SERVE JAIL SENTENCE IN WEST

Court Changes Term to Year and Day; Commitment Expected Soon.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, July 14—Albert B. Fall's jail sentence of a year was changed today to a year and a day to enable him to serve his time in a western prison.

The attorney general is expected immediately to designate the prison where the former secretary of the interior will serve.

The clerk of the District of Columbia suprem court will then send a warrant of commitment to the United states marshal in New Mexico or Texas, and he will take Fall to prison.

The department of justice has asked the warden of the New Mexico penitentiary if Fall could serve his time there and the warden replied that he could.

Frank Hogan, Fall's attorney, today moved before Justice Bailey in the District of Columbia supreme court, that the sentence of a year in the District of Columbia jail be amended to 1 year and a day in a penitentiary.

Justice Bailey asked District Attorney Leo A. Rover if he had any objection to the motion and when Rover answered "No," the motion was immediately granted.

At the time of the decision Attorney General Mitchell was at a cabinet meeting and he could not be reached immediately.

Under the new sentence Fall will become eligible to parole in four months, but the fact that his fine of $100,000 has not been paid would require an additional 20 days of service if he should take a pauper's oath, instead of paying the fine.

The change in the sentence will not deprive Fall of his citizenship, although he will probably lose his civil rights in New Mexico. These

AWAIT TWO LEADERS

Hindenburg, Luther Rush to Berlin, President Entering 'Whirlpool' for First Time.

By The Associated Press

Germany has declared what amounts to a general moratorium of banking operations, closing all banks except the Reichsbank until Thursday and perhaps longer. It was a precautionary measure, a temporary effort to tide the institutions over until help comes from abroad.

The Reichsbank announced this afternoon that the $100,000,000 rediscount credit from the international banks of issue and the world bank, which matures on Thursday, has been extended for three months.

Two men of outstanding importance in this time of Germany's crisis were speeding toward Berlin today to take part in the vital discussions of the next few days.

President Von Hindenburg, who until now has remained out of the whirlpool, was coming down from his country place at Neudeck, and Dr. Hans Luther, head of the Reichsbank, was flying back from Basel where he attended the world bank meeting yesterday."

Will Help "Quiet Nerves"

The president is coming primarily to receive Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald and Foreign Secretary Arthur Henderson of England on Friday, but it is likely that his arrival tomorrow morning will have a soothing effect on the nation's jangled nerves.

Dr. Luther's arrival is expected to be followed soon by the issuance of new emergency decrees, among which will be regulations to govern the traffic in foreign exchange and measures to halt the flight of capital out of the country.

While they waited for Dr. Luther, financial experts were working out a program of supplying ready cash when the banks reopen on Thursday, without embarking upon inflation.

All the banks were closed by government decree today so withdrawals might be halted.

One Project Proposed

One project which the experts have suggested is to bring back into circulation the "rentenmark" which was Germany's first currency after the mark was stabilized in 1923. It was backed not by gold but by five per cent bonds of 500 gold marks or multiples thereof, charged on German agriculture and industry.

Reaction outside of Germany to the collapse of the Darmstaedter und National bank has caused the temporary closing of all the banks in Hungary and suspension of the Mercur bank at Vienna, a subsidiary of the Darmstatedter. At Jassy, Rumania, the Dacia bank has closed with a $1,000,000 deficit.

Arthur Henderson, British foreign secretary, is on the way to Paris for conferences before he goes to Berlin, and Secretary of State Stimson also is headed for Paris from Rome. Secretary Mellon remains on holiday at Cap Ferat, taking no part in the developments.

Banks Suspend

The International bank and the Bank of Libau at Piga, Latvia, suspended payments today. The Latvian cabinet decided to guarantee deposits in Latvian currency, but asserted it could not extend any assistance to depositors whose accounts are in foreign currency. An announcement from Brussels said that Luxembourg banks decided to suspend marks on the exchange markets because of the number of

IN MEMORY OF CARRANZA

An attempted non-stop flight from Roosevelt field to Mexico City and return, planned to memorialize the tragic death of Major Emilio Carranza, noted Mexican flier, three years ago, almost ended in another tragedy yesterday. The plane, carrying Seth Herrington and Edward Maloney, New York aviators, crashed on the shore of the Gulf of Mexico, about 150 miles north of Brownsville, Tex. Both men escaped serious injury. The flight was planned as a second anniversary event honoring Major Carranza. Photo above shows the stone shaft erected to Carranza with officiating Mexican dignitaries and the wreath they have just placed at the monument. Inset picture above depicts Mrs. Dorothy Maloney, secret wife for almost four months of Edward Maloney, giving her husband coffee and sandwiches as his ill-fated flight started.

12 ACRES OF WHEAT DESTROYED BY FIRE

Blaze Starts from Blow Torch Used by Electric Co. Employes.

Half of a 25-acre field of wheat was destroyed and William G Cowan of 158 Elm street was overcome by heat and smoke when sparks from a blow torch ignited a wheat shock on the Lawrence Mautz farm on the Delaware pike yesterday afternoon.

The blow torch was being used by C. D. & M. Electric Co. linemen to weld a ground wire on the line between Marion and Waldo. An excavation was dug to hold the blow torch adn protect it from the high wind, but a spark lighted tall weeds and a shock of wheat close to the fence.

The high wind fanned the flames, and the fire spread rapidly through the dry wheat stubble, destroying 472 shocks.

Cowan and the other workmen went into the field in an attempt to extinguish the fire, but Cowan was overcome by the dense smoke and heat of the burning grain and was taken to City Hospital.

His condition was regarded as serious yesterday, but he showed improvement this morning.

The fire was not extinguished until the Waldo fire department was called and had worked more than 30 minutes.

No estimate was given on the loss.

WARNS OF STRIFE IN MINE STRIKE AREAS

Investigators Cite Dangerous Conditions Existing in Pittsburgh Coal Regions.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., July 14—The people of Pittsburgh "are entirely unappreciative of the gravity o fthe situation," three indeepndent investigators said yesterday after a tour of the coal fields where a strike of miners is in progress. "If they do not awaken soon they will shortly find themselves faced with a civil strife unparalleled in the coal industry."

The investigators were Dr. Colston E. Warne of Amherst college, Dr. William L. Nunn of New York university, and Mauritz Hallgren, associate editor of "The Nation."

The Pennsylvania-Ohio striking miners' relief committee has sent a telegram to Governor Pinchot asking that he provide 1,000 tents from military stores for use of miners and their families who have been evicted from their homes in the strike area.

"Thousands of miners striking against starvation, together with their wives and children, including babes in arms, are being evicted from company houses by deputized former coal and iron police and other deputies under the protection of state police," the message to the governor said.

Steel Company Head Dies in Rescue Attempt

By the Associated Press

ERIE, Pa., July 14—Plunging into Lake Erie in an effort to rescue two girls, Harry J. Marks, 35, president of the Federal Steel company at Detroit, drowned last night. One of the girls also lost her life; the other was rescued.

Marks, his daughter Babbita, three years old, and his two nieces, Phyllis Klingensmith, 17, and her sister Jackie, 10, were in a rowboat at North East. Jackie leaped into the water to swim. The water was over her head, and Phyllis, realizing the little girl was in trouble, plunged in after her. Then Marks jumped into the water.

Witnesses said Phyllis was clinging to Marks when they disappeared. A swimmer rescued Jackie. Bathers pulled the rowboat and the Marks baby to shore.

The Marks family came here for a vacation a week ago.

BELIEVE HOUSE SET ON FIRE

State and City Officials Investigate Blaze. Explosion Here.

SEE SIGNS OF PLOT

Owner Cites Trouble with Persons in North End as Possible Cause.

That the explosion and fire which destroyed the residence of William O. Mead at 717 north State street early yesterday morning, was the result of a carefully planned plot to destroy the place, is the definite conclusion reached by Harvey Ullmer, deputy state fire marshall and Fire Chief McFarland, following an investigation yesterday, the fire officials said today.

Owner Out of City

Mead, who was out of the city at the time of the fire, returned last night and immediately sought out Fire Chief McFarland. He identified one of the two cans thought to have contained gasoline and, found in the house by firemen, as his property. Chief McFarland said. He said that no gasoline was in the house when he left for the week-end out of Marion.

Mead said a second can found on the upper floor of the house did not belong to him. The two cans are believed by the fire officials to have contained the gasoline causing the explosion and fire.

That the gasoline had been placed in the house and fired as a means of revenge is the belief of Mead who told the fire officials that he had some trouble with persons in the north end of the city. He also said he left the house at noon Sunday after locking all of the doors and windows.

Fire Spreads Rapidly

The rapidity which the fire spread is conclusive proof that some highly inflammable fluid had been used, fire officials say. Within a few minutes after the explosion, according to witnesses, fire was pouring from every window and door opening on the first floor and in a short time, the fire had engulfed the entire second floor.

A series of puffs described by one of the neighbors as resembling the puffs of a small engine, was contributed to the burning of the gasoline. Mead told the fire officials that he had two insurance policies of the place, one for $2,500 on the house and another for $1,700 on the contents.

FOUR GROUPS TO CAMPAIGN FOR REDUCTION

Grange, Farm Bureau, C. of C. and Realty Board Representatives Meet.

SUBMIT RURAL PETITIONS

Township Committee Heads Named To Work with Boards.

Four organizations last night took definite steps in a county-wide movement to reduce the cost of government in Marion county. A 20 per cent reduction in the cost of county government and proportionate reductions in township and school district budgets are the immediate objectives of the movement.

Petitions bearing names of 606 Marion county taxpayers asking the 20 per cent reduction in county expenses were exhibited last night at a meeting of the legislative committees of the Grange and the Farm Bureau, the two strongest agricultural organizations in the county, and representatives of the Marion chamber of commerce and the Marion Real Estate board. The meeting was held in the Y. M. C. A.

To Submit Petitions

Decision to submit the petitions to the county budget commission at its next meeting and selection of a committee chairman in each township to approach the township trustees and district school boards with suggestions for reducing operating expenses constituted the official action taken at last night's meeting.

The county budget commission, which fixes all tax rates, is composed of County Auditor Earl E. Thomas, County Treasurer Bert J. Shelton, and County Prosecutor Russell M. Wilhelm. All are members by virtue of their offices.

The petitions will continue in circulation until approximately 1,000 signers have been obtained, Grange and Farm Bureau officials say.

Township Chairmen

The township chairmen are L. E. Weir, Scott; Harley Lyons, Tully; Charles Fetter, Claridon; Phillip Ruehrmund, Richland; H. H. Berninger, Waldo; J. H. Wallalagie, Prospect; W. H. Lust, Pleasant; Ed Ruth, Green Camp; LeRoy Anderson, Montgomery; H. M. Codding, Bowling Green; Ed Myles, Grand; Osias Washburn, Salt Rock; Levi Hite, Grand Prairie, and Frank Oesterle, Big Island.

Each chairman was empowered to appoint one or more committeemen to assist him. The chairmen also will act as a countywide committee to consider any tax reduction measures proposed.

J. W. Jacoby was named chairman of the program committee to arrange for monthly meetings of representatives of the organizations.

About 25 persons including Fred J. Lusch, service manager for the Farm Bureau, S. B. Stowe of the Pomona Grange, President Karl W. Schell and W. D. Brown, executive vice president of the Marion Chamber of Commerce, and W. T. Jones, president of the Marion Real Estate board, attended the meeting.

Embraces County

The movement at present embraces only the county, township and school district expenditures. No discussion of possible reductions in city operating expenses was held.

Last night's meeting is the latest in a number of movements in the county looking toward tax reduction. The Ohio Tax Reduction League and the Marion County Taxpayers association have discussed the possibility of reducing governmental expenses for many months in this district.

What part the chamber of commerce will take in the movement will be determined by the board of directors, Mr. Brown said today. The movement will be brought to the attention of the directors at their next meeting.

TWO COUNTRIES IN TRADE PACT

Action of Canada and Australia Seen as Move Against U. S. Tariff.

By International News Service

WASHINGTON, July 14—Those officials charged with reviving America's drooping foreign trade contemplated with dismay today the announcement in Ottawa that Canada and Australian have concluded a trade agreement by which they are going to trade more with each other and less with the United States.

The two British commonwealths, after months of irritation over the new American tariff law and after negotiations between themselves, have agreed to grant each other preferential tariffs on a long list of items, ranging from raw materials to manufactured products.

Thus, in a single year, Canada's energetic premier who rode into power last July on a platform of American tariff retaliation, has succeeded in a major part of his program which was to "make America pay" for what Canada considers the injustice done by her by the Smoot-Hawley tariff law.

Canada's first retaliatory act under the Bennett regime was to put into effect a set of emergency countervailing duties against American products. Following this, Bennett went to London and sought to persuade the imperial conference of British dominions to set up a system of preferential tariffs as between themselves, aimed at the United States. He was only partially successful in this, but he returned home determined to work it out with the individual dominions. Only a few months ago the emergency countervailing duties were replaced by permanent Canadian rates which set up new high barriers against American products entering Canada, and caused a number of American industries to hasten their plans for manufacturing on the Canadian side of the border.

YOUTH ARRESTED IN POSTAL ROBBERY

Tells Officers Newport, O., Home Burned To Cover Up Safe Theft.

MARIETTA, O., July 14—Russell Efaw, of St. Marys, W. Va., was held by federal authorities here today for the robbery of the Newport, O., postoffice and the burning of the Joe Francis home at Newport last Friday night.

County officials said Efaw signed a confession in which he said the home was burned to cover the postoffice robbery. The robbers took $110 in stamps and currency from the safe after dragging it to a nearby cornfield.

Efaw, officials said, implicated a man named "Akers" who he claimed was almost a stranger to him. They expressed a belief that Akers was a member of a postoffice robbing gang out of Hamilton Ohio.

Officials said Efaw told them he and Akers robbed the Frank Leonard store, obtained tools for cracking the postoffice safe, and then set fire to the Francis home to detract attention while they hauled the safe away.

Efaw said he and Akers became intoxicated and Akers left with most of the money and stamps.

LUTHER MAKES REPORT

Returns to Berlin After Issuing Dramatic Statement to Press.

By The Associated Press

BASEL, SWITZERLAND, July 14—Dr Hans Luther, president of the Reichsbank, left by airplane for Berlin today with the proposals of the bank for international settlements for restoring the economic stability of his country.

The directors of the bank unanimously agreed to two measures of assistance last night after listening to Dr. Luther's stirring appeal. They were: encouragement of other governments and their markets to respond to Germany's search for long-term loans and willingness to renew for three months its share of the rediscount credit of $100,000,000 advanced June 25 by the American Federal Reserve system, the Bank of France, the Bank of England and the World bank.

It is understood that the Federal Reserve bank and the Bank of France already are in accord with this renewal, while Montagu Norman, head of the Bank of England, must talk the matter over with his directors. The credit expires Thursday.

Dr. Luther was believed not to be entirely satisfied by the central bankers' relief measures but he probably regarded them as better than nothing.

Dr. Luther made an impromptu speech to the press at the end of the conference. His eyes blazed and his teeth bit off words as he said:

"The greatest mistake of modern times is the failure to understand that the German crisis is a world problem and affects humanity as a whole. Germany is getting poorer every day.

"In the present crisis the world cannot afford to lose Germany as a buyer of raw materials and manufactured goods. Germany's plight is humanity's plight which happens to be centered in Germany. Foreign countries alone can save Germany at the present juncture. They must do so in their own well-understood interest and regardless of any irrelevant considerations."

ALL BANKS CLOSED

Virtual Moratorium on Financial Operations Put in Effect.

By The Associated Press

BERLIN, July 14—The government moved today to stem the tide of financial disaster by placing in effect what amounts to a general moratorium on banking operations.

In accordance with a decree by President von Hindenburg, all banks throughout the reich, with the exception of the Reichsbank, were closed nominally until Thursday but actually as long as officials deem advisable to restore confidence.

Both banks and postoffices were prohibited from handling payments or transfers either in Germany or to foreign countries. Stock exchanges were ordered to suspend operations for the remainder of the week. Anyone insisting on buying foreign currencies had to pay cash over the counter. Checks were not accepted.

The government promised that arrangements would be made to facilitate the continuance of ordinary business including the meeting of mid-month payrolls of civil service employes.

The vital question remaining to be answered was how would millions of Germans—particularly the left and right radical elements—react to the president's drastic steps to halt the threatened nationwide run on the banks, started by the failure of the Darmstaedter und National Bank.

President von Hindenburg did not take advantage of his dictatorial powers until dispatches from the provinces, especially from the Rhineland, indicated that civic authorities already had been forced by heavy runs to close municipal savings banks temporarily. Berlin was quieter, but a hundred police guarded the central municipal savings bank as it paid out heavy deposits to thousands.

Business at Standstill

Germany's average citizen apparently was more concerned today with how to get enough ready cash to carry on until the banks reopened than about the ultimate fate of his bank account.

The shortage of cash was felt acutely by everybody, especially small business men who were faced with the necessity of paying employes and meeting running expenses.

There was little buying in big Leipziger Strasse department stores. Clerks were sitting around waiting for customers. This subnormal buying, however, was regarded by department store officials as a sign that folks were keeping cool and was taken to indicate the panicky feeling which led to bank runs yesterday had subsided.

A usual accompaniment to bank runs is a run on department stores, especially food counters, to convert cash into commodities for a "rainy day," merchants said.

Rumors that banks may stay closed all week were causing most people to spend little. Those who happened to be unprepared were doing their shopping on credit or asking friends for a loan.

WASHINGTON WATCHFUL

Hoover and Associates Concerned Over German Situation.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, July 14 — The financial situation in Germany was the cause of deep concern today in administration circles.

Although the decision of the world bank for international settlements at Basel and the recommendation of its directorate to extend rediscount credit of $100,000,000 to the Reichsbank somewhat eased the anxiety, President Hoover continued to watch every development. Results of the order of President Von Hindenburg closing all banks but the Reichsbank for two days are awaited.

Reports on the frail economic position of the Bruening government from American Ambassador Sackett in Berlin and Rudolf Leitner, charge d'affaires of the German embassy, indicated conditions still were bordering on collapse.

Marion Man Is Now Like New Thanks to Tongee

Well known local citizen says he was amazed at the great new medicine

ENDED YEARS SUFFERING

MR. WALTER R. PICKERING
667 Wood St. Marion

Among those who are strongly indorsing Tongee, probably none is better known than Mr. Walter R. Pickering of 667 Wood St. Marion. Mr. Pickering is a press operator and has lived in Marion for many years.

"I never saw anything like Tongee," reads Mr. Pickering's statement. "I am feeling almost like new since I got this medicine.

"Since 1918 I had ben almost a health-wreck. My kidneys caused me great trouble. I had to get out of bed 5 or 6 times a night. I felt so stiff and achy all over my body that it hurt me to walk, and especially in the mornings I could hardly get up out of bed. I was subject to dizzy spells and black spots would appear before my eyes. My liver was sluggish and I was forced to take laxatives all the time for constipation. It seemed like my entire system was full of poison and my whole body was a solid mass of aches and pains.

"That was exactly my condition, but since I got Tongee everything is different. I don't have dizzy spells any more, and my kidneys are acting fine. I never have to get up at nights, but instead, I can sleep right on through, and in the mornings I feel fine. The condition of my liver is perfect, and my bowels are regulated now, and my whole system has been relieved of misery. After the wonderful work of Tongee in my case, I am glad to recommend this medicine to the public."

LEGGE PAINTS BRIGHT FUTURE FOR FARMER

Former Farm Board Head Scores Theories of Vast Over-Production.

By United Press

CHICAGO, July 14 — Attacking the "false prophets who have painted a picture of gloom for the farm industry," Alexander Legge, former chairman of the federal farm board, said in a radio address today that American farmers were in better condition and faced a brighter future than virtually any other industrial group.

He scored theories of vast overproduction; explained briefly why it is natural that prices to the consumer are greater than those paid the producer; painted a bright picture for the future of the farming industry, and in conclusion, urged that farmers cooperate in production and distribution to realize greater profits.

"We hear much of surplus production," Legge said, "but I think few of us realize the food reserves of the world are not so very great after all. In truth, they are so small that any serious and widespread disaster to production would put all of us on short rations in a short time."

Referring to the difference in prices paid by the consumer and those paid to the farmer, Legge said: "Undoubtedly the spread is too great, but that is not due to any sort of monopoly. It is chiefly the result of extreme competition. Somebody must pay the expense of delivering produce to the consumer. Either it must be added to the price paid by the consumer or deducted from the price paid to the producer."

The farmer's income is far below what it ought to be, Legge said, but added that the same thing was true of the incomes of millions of other people in other walks of life.

COLORFUL DISPLAYS FEATURE CONVENTION

Shriners Present Lavish Spectacles in Crowning Day of Cleveland Meeting.

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, O., July 14—Nobles of the mystic shrine, in convention here from over North America, made lavish display of their showmanship today with spectacles that began early in the morning and were to continue late at night.

Today, the crowning day of the convention, was started off with a parade of 10,000 uniformed marchers, with bands, drum corps and a menagerie, including camels, elephants, zebras and horses.

Thirty-three of the 157 temples in North America had their uniformed organization in line, with approximately 50 bands.

Besides this noise battery B of the 135th field artillery, Ohio national guard, fired a salute of 2u guns.

Addresses of welcome were given by Governor George White and Mayor John D. Marshall of Cleveland.

Spectacular festivities were to continue far into the evening. Under a huge colored tent were tables spread for 1,600 where the imperial divan was to feast.

After the banquet the shriners were to stage a pageant and fireworks display at the stadium depicting a "night in the orient." The spectacle will be in the arena of the stadium and on a 450-foot stage where a city has been built for destruction by "volcanoes." More than 600 performers were to take part, including a ballet of 300 girls.

While the shows were being staged a contest was going on between San Francisco and Chicago for the 1932 Shrine convention.

Saturday Night Bath Upheld in Court Decision

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, July 14—The inalienable right of every American citizen to a Saturday night bath has been upheld in court.

The ruling was given yesterday by Judge Rudolph Desort in superior court. It concerned Stanley Norwell, a druggist, against whom the judge issued an injunction to restrain him from taking a bath in the bathroom of the apartment used jointly by him and his estranged wife, Antoinette, on all days except Saturdays.

Mrs. Norwell sued for separate maintenance on May 12, and was given the right to occupy, rent free, an apartment over her husband's store. He was allowed one room there as sleeping quarters.

"When we lived together," she told the court, "one bath a week was plenty for Stanley. Now he takes one every day. He does it just to annoy me."

The judge refused her plea to keep Stanley out of the bathroom altogether on the ground that a Saturday bath is a necessity.

CONDEMNED SLAYER PROTESTS INNOCENCE

Canada Executes Killer as "Joker" Leads Family To Believe Parole Granted.

By The Associated Press

TORONTO, July 14—Asserting his innocence until the last, Abraham Steinberg was hanged today for the murder of his nephew, Samuel Goldberg.

Goldberg was found dead with a revolver bullet in his head in the building where he and Steinberg had conducted a business together and which was set on fire after the shooting.

The revolver was found outside and there was evidence that it belonged to Steinberg.

The first trial ended in a disagreement but a conviction was obtained at the next. Appeals to higher courts and petitions for commutation were unsuccessful.

As Mrs. Steinberg and her eight children waited last night in hope of a last minute reprieve the telephone rang and a man reported that he had just arrived from Ottawa with an order commuting the sentence to life imprisonment.

"I'll be over in a few minutes," the hoaxer told the mother and children and they were still waiting when the black flag was raised over the prison today indicating Steinberg had been executed.

WILL FIX SCALE

Merrell Tells Contractors Workmen Must Be Given Living Wage.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., July 14—State Highway Director O. W. Merrell today advised contractors on state highway projects that he will fix the minimum wage scale to be paid laborers in each contract after July 22, when the Roberts house bill giving that authority is effective.

Merrell said the department had attempted to have contractors pay a standard living wage for work but had no legal means of enforcing the proposals. In many cases "wages have been so low as to shock the conscience," Merrell said.

The highway director said Governor White is interested in maintaining a fair wage schedule and to this end a conference with contractors will be held tomorrow afternoon at the highway directors at which the schedule on future contractors probably will be determined.

Mosquito "Ancestor" of World's Largest Commercial Plane, Now Being Built

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, July 16—The world's largest commercial airplane in the world is nearing completion in the Connecticut and it can trace its ancestry directly to a mosquito which lived and died in Russia in 1910.

In that year a young man of 27 abandoned experiments he had been conducting with a helicopter and built his first airplane. To the surprise of his friends the plane flew. It flew, in fact, 12 times. But on the thirteenth hop the engine died in midair and the plane crashed to demolition.

The young inventor crawled unharmed from the wreckage and set about discovering the reason for the engine's sudden cessation. At last, working by the process of elimination, he came to the gas line. He blew through it and out came one defunct mosquito which had clogged the fuel line and thus, as it turned out, given its life for the advancement of science.

Reaches His Decision

"Planes will never be safe," the inventor decided, "so long as so feeble a thing as a mosquito can destroy the power plant. Evidently what must be done is to have more than one engine so that when the need arises they can be divided, one for the plane."

Thusthe idea of multi-motored planes was born in the mind of Igor Sikorsky, later to become one of the world's greatest aeronautical designers.

Three years after he survived the encounter with the mosquito, Sikorsky built the world's first two-motored plane and ever since he has been an advocate of extra power, for to him the mosquito was a symbol of all the things that can happen to a motor which might spell disaster if but one engine was available.

During the war Sikorsky built 73 giant bombers with four engines each, the first such ships ever to be constructed. After the war and the revolution he came to America and opened a factory in which he employed fugitives of the old regime, many of them nobles of the Czarist court. His first plane in this country was the big ship in which Rene Fonck planned to fly the ocean.

Accident Changes Plans

After an accident which killed two of his crew Fonck abandoned the Atlantic flight and the plane was sold for commercial work in South America, where it is still in service. Sikorsky then turned his attention to multi-motored amphibians and this type is still his greatest interest.

The flying boat with wheel gear for landings on earth now nearing completion in the Sikorsky factory near Bridgeport is the largest plane ever built except the German DO-X and the largest intended for regular commercial use.

It is 75 feet long, has a 114-foot wing spread, is 23 feet high from the ground to the top of the cabin, with its single wing high above that and has a cabin 58 feet long accommodating 40 passengers and a crew of five. It should be ready for its first flying tests the end of this month and when all tests are completed will go into service on the Caribbean line of Pan-American highways. A sister ship is already begun.

BOYS EARN POINTS FOR CAP EMBLEMS

Playground Awards To Be Made Saturday; One Completes Test.

With the playground cap emblems to be awarded Saturday, many boys have made good progress toward earning their emblems, and one boy, Allan Wylie, of the Willow street grounds completed his tests Monday morning. The emblems are awarded on a point basis, when a total of 300 points were earned in various fields, such as nature study, sports, handiwork, and other groups.

The playground on the high school site on Willow street received a cleaning up Monday morning when two scrapers and a lawn-mower, furnished by the city, through the efforts of Safety Director T. E. Sonnanstine and Service Director D. J. Harlow, went over the grounds which are now in good shape, according to F. O. Rudolph, supervisor of the playground.

This morning at the Central Junior High school diamonds, two teams of younger boys from Willow street met two teams from the Shovel grounds in recreational baseball games as an extra activity of the playground program.

"A FREE SOUL" IS GOOD PICTURE

Norma Shearer shares honors with Lionel Barrymore in "A Free Soul" playing at the Palace through Friday. The two of them produce an excellent story of a brilliant lawyer-father who guides a motherless daughter through life with the principal of living as she desires, not as conventions demand. Clark Gable gives a finished support as the gambler she falls in love with and later learns to hate for the brutishness under the thin surface of underworld polish. Leslie Howard plays the sympathetic role of a young man in her own social class whom she spurns, only to learn to love when he kills the gambler who has threatened to kidnap her. Barrymore and Miss Shearer have a highly dramatic courtroom scene with Barrymore taking the honors. James Gleason is the comedy relief as flask-man to the inebriated Barrymore. Lucy Beaumont is charming in her few scenes as Barrymore's mother. The picture is too adult to be of any interest to children. A Lucky Rabbit comedy, a bed-time story comedy and newsreel complete the bill. H. H.

CITY COUNCIL PAYS RESPECT TO MEMBER

Officials Adjourn After Passing Resolution in Honor of Schneider.

Members of city council who, yesterday afternoon, served as honorary pallbearers at the funeral of John M. Schneider, a member of their body, continued the respect of his memory at the regular bimonthly meeting last night by confining their legislative activities to the passing of but one measure, a resolution of respect for the dead councilman.

Following the reading of the minutes of the last meeting, the resolution was read by the clerk of council, Sylvester Larkin, and on a motion by L. E. Starr seconded by Morris Kline, was adopted and ordered spread upon the records. The meeting then adjourned to meet Thursday night.

The resolution follows:

"The death of John M. Schneider takes from this community a man who has given much of his time and efforts as a councilman of the City of Marion, Ohio, in service to the public.

"We who have labored with him have found him a true and loyal friend, a man of high character, cheerful, charitable, and as an adversary, one who commanded our highest respect.

"He has passed from among us and we, his fellow members of the Council of the City of Marion, Ohio, deem it fitting that we here, in legislative session assembled, pay tribute to his high and enviable career and character, both as a man and public official, and express our sincerest sorrow at his death.

"Now, therefore, be it resolved: That as an expression of our sorrow in this loss, a copy of this resolution be entered upon the minutes of this meeting and that the Clerk of this Council send a copy of same to the relatives who mourn his loss."

Over the week-end, nine persons were hurt in local automobile accidents. We of today have some very queer notions regarding what constitutes pleasure trips.

We haven't any quarrel with President Hoover as a result of his attack on short selling by the grain gamblers, but it strikes us that short raising by the farmers would prove a lot more effective.

Within an hour from the time a fine pearl and a carved emerald were placed in the show window of a London shop, the former was sold for $45,000 and the latter for $25,000. England also, it is evident, has rum-runners.

The savings banks of New York state increased their deposits $15,521,560 in June, and the New York record was not an isolated one either. Many other states made big increases although in somewhat lesser degree. It is manifest that the specter of unemployment is still doing business at the same old stand.

Estimates by the department of agriculture are that there will be an increase this year of 5,583,000 bushels of what over the 1930 crop and an increase of nearly 900,000,000 bushels of corn. Doesn't look as though our agriculturist friends are greatly interested in doing their share to boost the prices of grains.

The New York Times and a number of papers out this way are urging Atlee Pomerene to become a candidate for congress from the Twentieth Ohio district. It may be safely said that the enrollment of Mr. Pomerene in the house membership wouldn't tend to lower its ability to any degree.

Berlin reports that the best paid people in Germany are the generals who fought in the World war and are drawing pensions, and that this applies in lesser degree to former government employes, ex-diplomats, one-time consuls and others in government service in the past. All nations are discovering that the cost of war is heaviest in the aftermath.

One of these days some of the motorists who make turns around local corners at as high at thirty-five miles an hour will kill some citizen, and possibly the authorities will then take steps to stop the dangerous practice.

The floor of the North sea was lifted more than 100 feet in places by the earthquake felt in England last month, and many sand-topped hills have been pushed up beneath the surface where there was formerly deep water, requiring the recharting of many areas of that sea. Whoever it was who referred to ours as an ever-changing world knew about what he was talking.

A Critical Time.

The world is working under the most severe pressure it has felt since the critical days of the World war. President Hoover's eleventh-hour moratorium, the financial crisis in Germany, the smoldering French desire for revenge against its former would-be oppressor, the double threat of communism and Hitlerism in Germany, and the tottering structure of international trade are factors in a momentous situation from which almost anything may result.

Americans, further removed from the center of intense pressure than any European people, are asking what will happen. They have a deep dread of revolution and war, though realising that the United States could not be involved in another European brawl. The real source of consternation on this side of the Atlantic is the possibility that the depression may be prolonged indefinitely by unsettled conditions. Americans sense the intricately balanced relationship of their nation with all of Europe, whether they admit it openly or not.

Until there is no further justification for hope, the sensible attitude will be one of confidence that Europe has the capacity to solve its problems in a manner that will bring the best order possible out of chaos. This government has done the most that lies in its power. President Hoover has suggested a moratorium which, though done at the eleventh hour, was America's only chance to give assistance. Private banking interests may do more, in the way of extending credits to Germany, but the government's services can go on no further.

There are times when the only choice of action is to sit tight and hope for the best. The world is in that position now—the world literally, because the events of the next few days on the continent of Europe will be felt wherever goods are imported and exported. That is practically everywhere.

A few men hold the responsibility, as always is true in a crisis. May they be given the strength, honesty and clear vision to act in such a manner that fifty years hence their names will be spoken in reverence for their

To Lighten the Tax Burden.

We are not disposed to disagree with the contention of Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt, of New York, that "government fails of its purpose when it ceases to give the maximum of service in return for the taxes paid by those who support it," but we can not see our way to getting into line with editorial writers who have suggested centralization of government as the best method of obtaining a maximum of service. One of the greatest menaces to the country today is the tendency toward the centralization of government. The crying need is for the decentralization of government. More and more states are taking over the functions of county and city government, and the national government is constantly encroaching upon the rights of the several states. If it isn't recognized as an axiom, that the nearer government is to the people, the better, it should be.

We here in Marion county and city would be far better off than we are today had not our state lawmakers succumbed to the wiles of the lobbies of public utilities and deprived us of many of our rights. We of the city of Marion would be in a far better position today had our general assembly not deprived us of our right to enter into the making of rate schedules for purely local consumption or the right to control the use of our streets and thoroughfares. The state of Ohio would be in far better shape than it is had not the federal government, through acts of congress, usurped many of its rights and powers.

No, the way of getting a maximum of service for each dollar expended for government is not through centralization of government, but through concentration of government. The rule for decades in city government—and state, for that matter—has been the expansion of government, and the manner in which jobs have been multiplied has been a c' e on those who are forced to bear the burden of it.

We noted, a day or two ago in a Chicago paper, that in 1910 there were 22,500 names on the pay rolls of the city government and the school board of Chicago. In 1915 the number of jobholders had mounted to 33,000. In 1925 the number of jobholders had increased to 36,000. In 1929, the last year for which the figures are available, the army of jobholders had increased to 41,000.

What is true in Chicago is largely true in most American cities, large and small. The list of pap-suckers is being steadily augmented.

We grant that the day may be afar off, but some day the people of the United States will become wise to the fact that they are office-ridden and will begin to lop off unnecessary and useless offices and officers. Some day the army of state jobholders will be reduced and a great political machine be wrecked as a consequence. That day will come when the government is decentralized and turned back to where it belongs. And what is true in the case of the state will be true in the cases of the counties and cities. There is no real reason why the county auditor, with a little additional clerical help, could not take over the work of the offices of county recorder and treasurer. There is no reason why the duties of sheriff could not be taken over by the clerk of courts, and we are not certain that the probate court could not profitably be abolished. And what excuse is there for more than one county commissioner, especially since the clerk of the board generally does the work of the three? In cities, at least in cities the size of our own in which there are municipal courts, why could not the mayor assume the duties of both the director of service and the director of safety? Certainly the sum total of the duties of the three offices would not prove beyond the abilities of any good man.

This newspaper hasn't any grudge against any of the gentlemen filling the offices it feels could be abolished. It simply cites them as illustrations of what might be done, what should be done and what may be done should the people of Ohio ever get to thinking and determine to abandon the burden of officialdom they are bearing.

Over in New York state, a woman who gave $7,700 to a Gypsy fortune teller that it might be "cleaned of evil spirits" is beginning to suspect that the "evil spirits" made off with it. In any event, she hasn't seen either the money or the fortune teller since the incident, and has asked the authorities to locate them. The late Mr. Barnum knew his business when he said it.

Having during a period of six years made 2,500,000 observations of 200 subjects, Dr. H. M. Johnson, of the Mellon Institute of Industrial Research, says that only one subject in the 2,500,000 "nights of sleep" remained quiet all night and that he was heavily drugged; that all sleepers move about and that nobody "sleeps like a log." Had the doctor slept "two in a bed" to any extent, it wouldn't have taken him six years to find that out.

Editorial Opinion.

HUMIDITY.

New York has had an object lesson these last few days of what life might be were it not for mountains. Extreme humidity of the earth's air, the experts say, would be the rule instead of a rare exception were the skin of the earth as smooth as the surface of the ocean instead of varied by the mountain wrinkles that have so many effects on weather. It is of the nature of any gas like air to absorb as much water as possible, taking on thereby what weather experts call 100 per cent. relative humidity, which means that the air then contains as much water vapor as it is capable of holding at that temperature. Such completely humid air lacks one of the properties most important to humanity. It will take up no further water. Perspiration will not evaporate. The rate of heat loss from warm-blooded bodies decreases. Both comfort and efficiency suffer. An approach to this condition was what we experienced hereabouts last week.

The earth's mountains prevent this by keeping this tendency of the air to gather moisture from complete and permanent success. On a smooth skinned earth there might still be some circulation of the atmosphere, for the sunlight received in the tropics would be greater than that received at the poles, temperate zones might exist, air currents might drift slowly from topics to poles at higher levels and from poles to tropics at lower ones, as similar vast currents do drift in the sea. But such majestic movements of the atmosphere probably would be slow enough to permit gradual adjustment of the air moisture so that the atmosphere everywhere would remain 100 per cent. humid. Mankind, if any such animal existed, would be very different from today. It is not improbable, in fact, that something like this does exist on the planet, Venus, which seems to have no mountains and which certainly has some kind of clouded and probably humid atmosphere.

The earth's mountains save us from that fate. Air currents moving against long, tall ranges like the Rockies or the Appalachians, are forced to rise to clear the rise of land. This rise means expansion. Gas expansion always means cooling. This relatively sudden cooling throws water out of the air, thus causing much of the earth's rain and also causing the even more important change of drying the air. It is this partially dried air, coming down after crossing the mountains, to levels nearer the sea, that gives us the day of low or moderate humidity which are the kind that we enjoy. Such forced rises or falls of vast air bodies are believed, indeed, to constitute the only widespread mechanism capable of keeping the earth's air comfortably dry. — New York Herald Tribune.

UNEMPLOYMENT IN CHINA.

China would be interested in any plan for relieving unemployment that may be developed by the United States or the countries of Europe. A survey of Tien Tsin shows, it is said, that 400,000 persons are unemployed out of a population of 1,450,000. The unemployed at Peiping are estimated at 200,000 out of a population of about a million. It seems that China has economists, just as other lands, and these economists estimate that men and women entirely out of work in China today, or those working for less than a living wage, total 50,000,000, one-ninth of the Chinese population of 450,000,000.

It is suspected, however, that this is not a recent development, brought on or greatly magnified by conditions that threw people in Europe and America out of work. China did not enjoy widespread prosperity even in the best of times. It called for famine relief and was torn by civil strife. Perhaps it was the difficulty of obtaining peaceful employment that kept the warriors at each other's throats. But now China is enjoying comparative peace, and unemployment is much worse, apparently, than it is anywhere else in the world. — St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Causes Undue Alarm.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

"Tumor" is the word commonly used in describing a swelling of the tissues. As a matter of fact, it is derived from the Greek word meaning swelling.

Frequently the name tumor is thought to refer to the swelling due to cance' It is for this reason that many a person becomes unduly alarmed when told by the physician that he has a tumor.

One of the most simple types of tumor that I can tell you about is known as a "sebaceous cyst." These cysts, or tumors, occur either singly or in groups. They vary in size from a tiny swelling to a sac two inches or more in diameter.

Sebaceous cysts are most commonly seen in the scalp. They also occur behind the ear, in the eyebrow or wherever hair is found. Though found in young adults, the' are most common in middle age.

The condition is caused by a blocking up of the duct of a sebaceous gland, a gland of the skin. The material manufactured by the gland gradually accumulates within its envelope and produces the tumor.

The tumor grows rather rapidly, but sometimes has long dormant periods when it does not seem to grow at all. One of these cysts, or tumors, may attain a very large size if left alone.

It may become inflamed and ruptured, discharging the contents of the sac. This gives but temporary relief, because the sac will fill again in a short time.

There is only one thing to do for this condition. The cyst and its contents must be removed. In addition to removing the mass, this procedure guards against its recurrence.

The operation is very simple and can be done in the doctor's office. There is no pain attached to it, as it is usually performed under local anaesthesia.

I advise having such tumors removed. A cleanly done little operation amounts to nothing. If the swelling is left alone and the sac permitted to rupture, in addition to its becoming inflamed, it may become infected. Once infected, it may cause great misery and discomfort.

Marion—Seen Through Local Eyes.

The following is the answer of one citizen to the question, "What Is Wrong with Marion?"—the first in the questionnaire circulated by Dr. Carl W. Sawyer to get a comprehensive insight into the community feeling regarding our home city, in the hope of arriving at a remedy for handicaps, if any, from which Marion may suffer. From day to day, answers of various citizens to the same question will be given publicity on this page.

"What is wrong with Marion?"

There is really nothing radically wrong.

We have failed to keep step with the marked progress and changing economic conditions.

We have lost that spirit of helpfulness, co-operation that encourages and builds and are [illegible] leadership needed for united effort

Genuine Television.

BY ARCHIBALD HENDERSON.

The problem of television, or seeing at a distance, has presented many mechanical and electrical obstacles to overcome, of almost insuperable difficulty. Television is entirely different from the transmission of a photograph by line wire or wireless. An actual image must be transmitted without the intermediary of a photographic plate. Picture projection by wireless, for example, merely amounts to the wireless, for example, merely amounts to the ordinary cinema projection with electric ordinary cinema projection with electric instead of light transmission as between the projector and the screen, and is more accurately described as tele-cinematography.

In television as explained by Ellison Hawles in "The Book of Electrical Wonders," the light falling on an object at the transmitting station must be converted into an electric current, sent over a telegraph wire, and reconverted into light at the receiving station, so that the image can be projected in some manner and so made visible. In photo-telegraphy the medium between sitter and the finished print is purely chemical, whereas in television the medium between the sitter and the viewed image is purely electrical. Correspondingly, in the former process there is a permanent record after a successful transmission, but in television there is no record; when the transmissions cease the results remain only in the memory of the sitter.

For long, television was regarded as an unrealizable dream. Sight at a great distance was felt to be as impossible, as visionary, as a successful search for the food of the gods, the elixir of life, or the philosopher's stone. As John Baird says in "Television for the Home:"

"It should be realized that television is not really a question of transmitting and receiving a number of images each second, for an image can not be sent or received as a whole. Each image has to be broken up into thousands of tiny fragments and reassembled by the receiver in a fraction of a second. The practical problem in television was how to transmit nearly 100,000 signals per second, and it was at once realized that this problem was on quite a different plane to the ordinary wireless problem, such as sending signals by dots and dashes."

A considerable number of inventors have worked on the problem of television. Ernest Rubiner devised a system in which he copied the method employed by nature in the human eye, which is optically the same as a photographic camera. A large number of television cells connected with the same number of small electric bulbs was the fundamental feature of Rubiner's device. It did not prove to be successful, because there is a certain lag in the response to changes of selenium, and also because of the enormous number of cells necessary to build up even a small picture.

Other devices are those of Dener von Mihaly, called the Telehon; of E. F. W. Alexanderson with a television projection of Belin and Holwick, making use of cathode rays. Twice television has been produced, it is claimed, alone by John L. Baird. In April, 1928, at Selfridges', in London, he transmitted shadows cast by opaque objects placed in the path of light-ways focused upon a single selenium cell. In October of the same year he transmitted and showed upon the receiving screen a real image, with details, and with gradation of shading.—Copyright, 1931, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Riding Herd in Hungary.

BY TEMPLE MANNING.

It is only natural that we of the United States should think of our western cowboys whenever the question of cattle is raised. We are apt to forget the other great grazing lands of this world and that wherever there is grazing there must be horsemen to guard and care for the herds.

But if we think of our own cowboys, we have the picture of at least one thing which seems to be well-nigh universal among the tenders of herds. They are colorful. Our cowboys with their chaps and bright shirts and bandannas, the gauchos of the Argentine pampas with their full pantaloons and boots and ornamented belts, the csikos of the Hungarian plains with their whips and "trick" hats.

We are going to visit the csikos today.

East of Budapest a short distance, the traveler will find the beginning of the Alford, that great central plain of Hungary. This is fertile and rich, on the whole, but in the northern part lies a great uncultivated stretch, a moor, known as the Hortobagy or the puszta. And here we will find the csikos and sheep herders.

Although there are definite social distinctions between the various herders—the cowherd ranking first and the swineherd down at the bottom of the scale—there is no great difference in their dress. First and foremost is the "suba" or long cloak of sheepskin. On the skin side there will always be found embroidery work—flowers done in bright thread. The heavy fleece makes this a warm garment for the chill nights. Next come th. long pleated trousers of linen and the long white woolen coat; this, too, is embroidered in reds and blues. Topping this is his hat, which looks like a low derby with curled brim.

Two items of "impedimenta" are worthy of mention. One is the whip used by the mounted herdsmen and the other is the crook of the sheep herders.

The whips are the pride and joy of the herdsmen and they are works of art. The handles are usually decorated in one way or another.

The shepherd's staff has a metal crook at one end and this crook is so shaped that it will fit neatly around the sheep's back leg. When a sheep begins to wander the shepherd need only reach out, catch the wanderer's hind leg and he is brought back to the fold.

Expect Old-Time Interest in Chautauqua To Return

Season of Entertainment Here To Find Favor as Features That Once Packed Pavilion Are Returned; Opens Next Sunday.

With the Marion county Chautauqua opening next Sunday evening at Garfield park, there are distinct indications of a return to the old-time interest that formerly packed the open-air auditorium to capacity. With a real headline program arranged, and with the elimination of practically all of the smaller nearby assemblies, the Marion meeting has taken on new life and it is predicted that the attendance this year will be far in excess of any record in recent years.

Two Plays on Program

Two modern plays, "Her Husband's Wife," and "The Enemy," are among the popular features of the 1931 program. They will be offered Monday afternoon and Monday night, respectively.

Paul Rader, famous as pastor of the Chicago Gospel Tabernacle, will open the chautauqua next Sunday night, assisted by an immense union choir from Marion churches. Many Marionites have heard Rader's radio talks.

An unusual Chautauqua number is "Mystic Mardoni," the man who was featured in Pathe News recently, when he escaped from a tightly-drawn straight-jacket while hanging head down from an airplane traveling 150 miles an hour. His program here will consist of escapes, mind reading and magic.

Pamahasika and his pets will provide a great entertainment for junior and senior chautauquans. They will be seen Tuesday night, July 21, following a concert by the Arcadia Novelty company. In the trained troupe of Pamahasika is the $5,000 pony, "Princess Levita." In addition there will be two truck loads of educated pets, including riding and dancing dogs, bicycling birds, trained cats, aerial parrots, Japanese pigeons and Arabian doves.

The Ramos Mexican orchestra, headed by Senor Hesiquio Ramos, and including several charming, dark-haired senoritas in the personnel, will appear in two programs, July 22, along with Mrs. "Private" Peat, native of northern Ireland and lately of the staff of the London, England, Daily Chronicle. In her address, "Youth Marches On," Mrs. Peat pictures the 1931 youth in his place in the affairs of tomorrow.

Says Program Good

George G. Whitehead, chautauqua representative who reached Marion yesterday, is working with President Karl Schell and other members of the Marion County Chautauqua association to make the 1931 assembly a success. Mr. Whitehead, after nearly 20 years in chautauqua work, asserts that the attractions obtained by the local committee for Marion this season are all of exceptional merit.

Those who subscribed for tickets to the 1931 program are urged to obtain them immediately at the Y. M. C. A. Season tickets are being sold for $2 for adults and $1 for children.

Prominent Granger in State Department

Joseph W. Fichter of Hamilton, O., well known to Marion county grangers, has been named assistant director of education in the Ohio department of education. Mr. Fichter was prominent at the 1930 grange convention here last December, and was reelected state lecturer. He has served as superintendent of rural schools in Butler county for the last eight years.

Mme. Mardoni will appear with him in one of the mystifying features of the program, mind-reading presentation. Magic and mystery will combine on their program. THE UNITED STATES refused to sell 250,000 bales of American cotton to Russia. American cotton growers will wonder why. We would sell cotton, as Lord Beaverbrook remarked, to cannibals. Why not sell to the bolsheviks? At least they don't eat each other.

This week Russia is purchasing 50,000 bales of cotton in Egypt. Our British and Egyptian brothers have no objection to Bolshevik money. Are we not a little provincial, in "good old America," or do we think we were born to tell other nations how they must run their governments, and what they must believe about the sacredness of the dollar, as opposed to the comparative unimportance of the human being.

SOMEBODY stole 28 canary birds as they sat in their cages singing sweetly. And, having stolen them, turned them loose in the park.

It was mistaken kindness. You might as well take 28 sons of very rich men from their yachts, automobiles or polo ponies, and turn them loose in the struggle for existence.

They wouldn't thank you

SAMUEL SABINO, 15, sat at his newsstand. A passing taxicab slowed down, two bullets from the cab entered the boy's chest, killed him. The cab went on.

Police say that for a boy of 15 to be "put on the spot" is unusual, but there is nothing puzzling about it. The boy's father had been told to do something, had refused, or failed, and the boy was killed as a warning to obey next time.

Our modern crime is thorough.

Boy, in Anger, Destroys Paper Worth $15,000

By International News Service

PITTSBURGH — A "scrap of paper" worth exactly $15,000 was destroyed by a Negro boy here in anger because he believed he was cheated in the exchange by which he procured the valuable document for a handful of canceled stamps.

Dr. Kenneth M. Day, a philatelist, who tracked down the valuable paper—actually an envelope bearing the seal of the postmaster of Alexandria, Va., and dating to pre-Revolution days—found the remnants scattered to the four winds on an ash-pile.

By chance, Dr. Day discovered that the valuable envelope had been given away by its owner who believed it worthless, to a small boy. The first recipient traded the paper with another lad who, carrying on the trading adventure, passed it on to the Negro boy for a handful of canceled foreign stamps. The latter tore it up in anger.

The search for the lost envelope began when a young business woman, friend of Dr. Day, upon looking through his collection, was shown a photographic reproduction of the envelope and postmaster's seal. She was amazed when she learned the true value of her philanthropy.

The original owner of the envelope found it in a collection of ancestral documents. One of her ancestors had been a postmaster in Alexandria before 1845 when postmasters in a dozen cities had been granted permission to print "provisionals," temporary stamps and envelopes. The "provisionals" went out of use when the United States began to print stamps

Court Coat of Tan But Keep On Using Nourishing Cream

BY JOSEPHINE HUDDLESTON

SOMETHING that I want to pass along to you before the summer sun plays too much havoc with your complexion is the suggestion that you use a lot of nourishing cream at this particular season.

There doesn't seem to be any question but that most of us are going in for tan in a big way and I for one have ceased to urge you to forego the tawny skin of the sun-tan Miss. How can I, when I am as brown as the proverbial berry and the season only just getting into full swing?

However, I haven't cast discretion to the winds to the extent of forgetting that Fall is coming and with it the need of smooth, fine skin and Winter complexions. One of the main objections to deep suntans is that they invariably make the skin coarser and for this reason I've objected to them, feeling that the source of pleasure gained during the few months sun-tans are seasonable is not sufficient to make up for the coarsened skin.

I've had an opportunity to do quite a little experimenting this past Spring, however, for I got my first layer of tan unusually early and it gave me something to work on.

Replaces Natural Oils.

The use of nourishing cream hitherto has been objected to during the summer months because the natural oil supply is greater at that season than during cold weather. Frequently, the daily use of rich creams such as are advised for refining the skin proves overnourishing, causing whiteheads and, in some cases, it induces an excessively oily condition. Hence my previous suggestions that you dispense with daily applications of nourishing cream during the summer.

For those of you who are going in for sun-tan, however, I want to change this and to give you a treatment which I'm sure will prove helpful.

As soon as you return from a session in the open where the skin is exposed to the bright rays of the sun, cleanse the skin thoroughly and then massage a liberal amount of nourishing cream over the burned or tanned area. Let the nourishing cream remain on for 15 or 20 minutes and then remove it completely, finishing off the treatment with a liberal application of astringent.

Let the astringent remain on for two or three minutes then sponge it off with a wash cloth which has been saturated in iced water.

It is not necessary to repeat the treatment until the next exposure to the sun or to the intense light rays of midsummer, which burn or tan the skin as much as the direct rays of the sun.

This abundant application of nourishing cream, immediately after exposure, replaces the natural oils which have been dried from the surface of the skin and so softens and refines it before the temporary dryness has a chance to coarsen the texture. I've been following this plan for three months now and it's working out beautifully, so I'm sure you will find it helpful.

CHAPTER 27

An Unexpected Reunion

It was evident from Donovan's appearance that the man had passed through a terrible experience. His haggard face, his glaring eyes, his trembling lips and twitching features, all told the story of one who, from physical suffering and mental agony, was close to the limit of human endurance. When the two deputies had deposited their prisoner on a chair Sheriff Will Bruce handed a package of notes to the sheriff. "Stub and I found this here bundle must be the Orchard Hill bank's missing $..."

"Good!" ejaculated the sheriff, examining the bundle of notes. "What else?"

The deputy handed him a pocket book. "There's more money in here." Then he laid a gun with its belt and holster on the counter-desk, saying to the under-sheriff, "Here's his gun, Pete."

"Good work, boys!" said the sheriff. "Where did you pick him up?"

"Right near where the Mother Mountain trail comes into the road from here to Gold Center. He was all in, and plumb loco. He was tryin' to crawl on his hands and knees. When we'd worked over him a while and got him so he could talk a little he began ravin' and cryin' and seein' things. At first he thought I was somebody he called 'Bruce' and that Stub was a boy named 'Pierre.' Then all at once he began yellin' that he'd killed his own son—his little Pierre. But when we finally got him fixed up so he was rational, he just shut up sullen and dumb, and he ain't said a word since."

"All right, boys," said the sheriff. Deputy Will went to stand with Stub—the prisoner between them.

The sheriff then said deliberately: "I may as well tell you, Mr. Colorado Bill—Roy Donovan, that we've got you dead to rights."

As the sheriff spoke the name, Antonio Latour started. Then with a reassuring murmur to Ann he came slowly forward and stood beside the sheriff's chair, his gaze fixed intently upon the prisoner.

"We know who you are," continued the sheriff. "We know that the man who called himself Fred Burnes was Bruce Carey who was wanted in connection with that Orchard Hill bank robbery and killing, and we know that you murdered Bruce Carey at Blackwater Tanks."

Roy Donovan raised his head and looked at the sheriff in sullen defiance. Then he saw the old actor. For a moment the man stared blankly at this one who, to him, seemed to have suddenly appeared from another world. Then as they watched, his jaw dropped, his eyes glared, his face twitched, sullen defiance gave way to stark fear. With a cry, he sprang to his feet. The two deputies on either side caught him by the arms.

"Tony Latour!" he gasped in a hoarse whisper. "It's Tony! Harriet, Bruce, Pierre—oh, my God!" He dropped back into the chair overcome with horror.

Not a sound came from those who watched. Motionless, they waited.

Then the sheriff spoke quietly: "Where did you get this Orchard Hill bank money, Donovan?"

"I got it from Bruce—no, I got it from Pierre. Bruce got it from the cashier of the bank. Bruce told me all about it. He didn't mean to kill the cashier—cashier had stolen the money and was making his getaway. He jumped Bruce, and Bruce killed him in self-defense—didn't know he had killed him until afterwards."

"You killed Bruce for the money?"

"No, I killed him for the water. He was going to leave me without water in the desert. I had to kill him. It was self-defense, I tell you! Pierre heard Bruce tell me about the bank affair. He was going to bring me into you for shooting Bruce. He was going to take the money back to the bank. He wouldn't listen to reason. Pierre is a sentimental, idealistic fool, like his mother—all artist. Made me dig a grave. I struck the lost Mother Mountain lode. Even then, Pierre wouldn't listen."

"So you killed Pierre, too, did you?"

"No, no, that's a lie—I never killed him—I couldn't kill my own son, could I? I played fair with Pierre. When he wouldn't go with me, I gave him half the water. He had a better chance to get back to Dripping Spring than I had to make Gold Center—you know that, don't you, Sheriff? I never killed my own son. If he is dead it's because the desert got him—same as it got me." The man slumped down in his chair, supported by the two deputies.

"Take him away, boys," said the sheriff. He'll brace up again after a little. Keep your eye on him, Pete, and get his written confession with all the details when he's able to make it."

"Right, Sheriff," answered Pete, and the two deputies took their prisoner into one of the other rooms.

To the three other men—Charlie, Jeff and Henry—the sheriff said: "Now, boys, hop to it and get that posse together. There's not much chance of our finding that boy, Pierre, in Skeleton Sink, but we've got to do what we can."

The men left the office and the sheriff turned to Ann who, sitting a little apart with Old Tony and Jimmie Harrigan, was crying quietly.

"I'm real sorry, Mrs. Carey, ma'am. It's too bad it had to happen like this—with you here."

"I would have to know it anyway, Sheriff. Please don't think I—I blame anybody. We—we're all of us to blame for such things, I guess. It's better for Bruce, this way, than—than—"

The two deputies, who had taken Donovan to the adjoining room, returned and the sheriff said to them: "I've sent the other men to get a posse together to look for that boy, Pierre. You two had better go along and help them. I want every man in Red Butte that's able to sit on a horse. I know it ain't much use, ma'am," he added to Ann, "but we ain't goin' to let a boy like that die without a try."

The two men, Will and Stub, were half way to the entrance when a figure, terrible to see, staggered through the open door. His unshaven face was haggard and caked with sweat and dust. Between his sun-cracked and swollen lips his swollen tongue could be seen. His eyes, in their sunken caverns, under a drawn and wrinkled brow, were almost closed, and he peered about uncertainly, and made curious groping motions with his clawlike hands.

The two deputies sprang to the poor creature's side and supported him to a chair.

The sheriff ran to the water-cooler.

The newcomer peered at those about him as if he saw them only as dim shadows of people. He opened his swollen lips and tried to speak, but only a hoarse, rasping mumble came from his throat. He pointed to his mouth—attempted to make a motion with his hand as if raising a cup to his lips—and then, before the sheriff could reach him with the water, the last of his strength failed; his eyes closed; his head fell forward; his whole body slumped from the chair to the floor.

"Great God almighty!" exclaimed Jimmie Harrigan. "It's the kid, Pierre!"

The same instant, Ann cried, "Pierre!" and ran to kneel beside the unconscious boy.

Old Tony, without a word, stood over them.

The others, wise from years of experience in the ways of the desert, worked with all their skill to bring back the life that was so nearly gone.

Several times the sheriff shook his head hopelessly.

Jimmie Harrigan muttered grim curses and prayers.

Ann murmured as a mother to her child, whispered again and again, "Pierre! Pierre!" assuring him that everything was all right; that he was safe; that she, Ann, and Father Tony were there.

"I'm afraid it ain't no use, ma'am," said the sheriff.

But even as he spoke, Pierre's breast heaved with a long sigh and he stirred as one about to awaken from sleep. Another moment and he slowly opened his eyes.

To Be Continued.

A surf board has been designed that can be operated by an outboard motor.

A Story of Boyhood Adventure

BY JUDD M. LEWIS

TUESDAY. I let Jubilee down by the rope in his teeth, and then I went down as soon as I had got into my short britches, and when I got to the bottom of the stair it thundered quite a long ways off, and my mother hollered to me from her bedroom and asked me if it was going to rain, so I went outside and looked up at the sky, and there was only one cloud, it was quite a big cloud and was almost black, and the wind was blowing it along so fast that I knew if it didn't bust when it got over us it would go and spill somewhere else; so I went back in and told her it wasn't going to rain, and my ant hollered and said it was too. She said distant thunder meant near by rain. I told her all right. So I went out and milked the cows and the bunch come and the cloud went on past to wherever it was going and there wasn't any rain. When I went in Younise and Feeble and Maggie were there, and they all looked warm, and my mother said she would give anything for a good rain, and I asked her what she would give me if I would make it rain before night, and she told me to not be ridiculous; but my grandfather went out to the door and looked around at the sky, and then he wunk at my mother and said he would give me half a dollar, but he expected a good heavy rain for that much money. I told him he would get it.

The girls wouldn't go to the pasture with us because it was too warm. So we hiked out and when we got there and got the cows shut in we got some sticks and went over to the big rock pile and we didn't have to look to find a snake, for one was stunning itself on the rocks, but he slid down into them when he saw us, but we got busy and rolled the rocks away from the pile till I saw the middle of him laying across a rock, with his head and tail out of sight between other rocks, and I [illegible] his head on [illegible] got him by the neck and [illegible]

"Heart of a Wife"

BY ADELE GARRISON

Madge Takes Up the Thread of Her Play.

MY hands were suddenly clammy as Lillian linked arms with me, and said that I "couldn't stall any longer. We must tackle that third act." Ever since she first had voiced her proposal that I spend the night in dictating to her and to Katherine the lines of the third act of my play, I had been in the state known to thrill writers as a "blue funk." It seemed so fantastic and hopeless a thing, this proposal of hers to finish the first writing of my third act before Philip Veritzen should arrive upon the morrow for a reading of the play, that even my remembrance of the complete mental outline I had made was gone as if it never had existed. With that fresh in my memory, the prospect of dictating so many words would not have daunted me, but with it gone—as I went silently with Lillian up the stairs, I said to myself grimly, desperately, that my much-vaunted memory had failed me just when I needed it most.

Door of Failure

As we reached the door of my room, Lillian released her arm from mine, and then swung me around facing her, with her hands gripping my shoulders. Her eyes were mirthful, her face cheery, but I could not feel heartened.

"After all," she gibed, "there is neither a guillotine nor an electric chair in that room, although one would think by the look of you that this was your last walk, through the little green door."

"It will be the door of failure," I said despondently.

Her hands tightened their grip upon my shoulders, and she shook me slightly, but with a touch of exasperation in her manner.

"I wish I knew what was the matter with you," she said. "It isn't like you to quit in the harness like this."

She did not add, "and leave the other horse to pull all of the load," but I caught the implication in her tone, and reacted to it as I might to a whip cut, not stopping to reason out until afterwards that Lillian shrewdly had used the one comment which would act as a spur to my lagging will and vanquish the inertia which had seized my brain.

I threw up my head and moved slightly toward my door. She instantly took her hands from my shoulders, and, following me into the room, went directly to the miniature theater Philip Veritzen had given me upon the preceding Christmas. Katherine had left its lights turned on—there was no omitted detail in the completeness of Philip Veritzen's gift—and the tiny doll actors were in the wings as we had left them when Lillian's triumphant gibe to an absent mentor—"That's the time we scored on you, Mr. Philip Veritzen," had died abruptly at the sound of the motor horn which signalled the arrival of the Veritzens and their guests.

Katherine was not in the room, but she evidently had heard us coming up the stairs for she appeared at the door just as Lillian put her hand upon the absurd little asbestos curtain with which Philip Veritzen had provided the theater.

"Curtain just rising?" she queried.

"At once," Lillian said briskly, taking up Philip Veritzen's role of director where she had laid it down upon his unexpected arrival. "Come on in and take that carbon copy away from Madge. She doesn't need it, she remembers every comma in the darned thing, and I want you to read half the roles. Madge will take the others, and I'll do the heavy directing, bawling out and all the rest of it. Madge you'll have to propel the actors gently but firmly from place to place, for you're the only one who knows where they belong."

Safe from Interruption

Her comment upon my "quitting in the harness" had spurred me into action, but this direction gave me my first ray of hope. I saw what, in my mother-in-law's parlance, she was "up to," and I voiced my thought questioningly.

"You want us to run through the first two acts before getting to work on the third?"

"What else?" she retorted. "There's everything in oiling the hinges."

"You mean," I queried, "that by the time I get through with reading the first two acts—"

"That the dohickey you call your brain will go on with the third automatically."

"Provided, of course, that there are no interruptions," Katherine amended with decision. "Where are all the rest of the inmates of the madhouse tonight?—any of 'em locked in their cells as yet?"

"Dicky's mother, Madge's father and Roderick and Junior are safely in bed," Lillian answered. Marion, Mary, Bill and Hank are dancing with instructions to go to bed not later than eleven, and to say good night for us to Dicky and Harry who were last seen escorting the Veritzen 'family' to their car. I think we're safe from interruption."

"Sorry," Katherine said briskly, "but right here's where I beg to differ and all the rest of it."

The Stars Say—

For Wednesday, July 15

Notable nativity; Thomas C. Platt, politician.

THE planetary configurations wielding major influence on this day make for disturbance, disruption and in certain alliances definite devastation. It will probably be a day of great excitement and perplexity, involving sudden change and unexpected experiences, but with keen sagacity and initiative things may be ordered in the direction of success and advancement. This despite obstacles, disappointments, postponements and a generally critical state of affairs.

Those whose birthday it is may prepare for a year of unusual activity, with excitement, upheavals, change and disturbance. Out of this welter of turmoil with prudence, sagacity and deliberation in managing opposition and hostility some advantages, progress and preferments may accrue. Much depends upon personal initiative, which will be found under high stimulus. A year of crossroads is seen. A child born on this day may be extremely active and energetic, but restless, changeable and at times depressed. It should make fair success in employment.

Old Booklet Tells of Fight Over Run-away Slave in Marion

Marion saw a little of the bitter contest over slavery in 1838, a small booklet titled "Early History of Peru Township," in Morrow county, now the property of W. H. Hickson of 495 Olney avenue reveals. The history was printed in 1897 by A. S. Benedict.

A colored slave ran away from his master at Kanawha Salt Works in West Virginia, making his way to Marion, the history relates. His master learned of his whereabouts and came to Marion and had him arrested.

Meantime, nine anti-slavery advocates, including the author, came to Marion from Morrow county to help the slave. They advised a plan to free him from jail should the court decree that the man should have to return to his master. Affairs took a queer turn. The colored man's name was John Smith, and the affidavit was brought against "Mr. Smith." The court ruled that they might be two different men, and freed the Negro.

The Virginian became irate, drew a bowie knife and announced that the Negro was his property and he intended to have him if he had to go to "hell or Canada" for him. Judging from the incidents that followed, the Virginian had to go still farther than that, and still returned empty handed.

A general free-for-all ensued in which the nine from Morrow county played a prominent part. The Negro was hurried into a building, which was forcibly entered by the aid of rails in the hands of the insurgent Virginians. When the battle ended, the Virginians were in jail and the Negro was safe in a swamp several miles away. He eventually escaped into the north.

The history concerns various persons residing in Peru township three quarters of a century ago. It is a treasured relic of Hickson's, as his grandmother resided in the township at the time the history was compiled.

STATES PASS LAWS TO HALT HIKERS

Auto Club Secretary Points to Action as Safety Measure.

With an increase in the number of hitch-hikers due to the depression and a corresponding increase in the number of crimes resulting from the practice of giving rides to these persons, eight states of the union have taken steps to put a stop to the practice by passing laws making it prohibitive for any person to solicit rides, according to Mrs. Della Gallegher, secretary of the Marion Automobile club.

The eight states who have taken this action against the "thumbers" are Connecticut, Delaware, Maine, Minnesota, New Jersey, New York, Oregon and Wisconsin.

"This legislation," Mrs. Gallegher said, "is designed to promote safety which is threatened by persistent persons crowding out on the highways in an attempt to halt approaching cars and also to protect motorists against strangers who have robbery or other violence as their motive in seeking a ride."

"Numerous instances of thefts and even murders, have followed in the wake of motorists desiring to give strangers a lift," the secretary said. "While in the majority of cases the hitch-hikers are on law-abiding missions and are appreciative of transportation, the only way in which the car owner can be certain is to refuse to recognize the signal of all strangers."

Next Year To Mark Centenary of Orignal Pledge Signers.

By United Press

LONDON—Without a headache, or "the morning after" feeling to inspire them, seven men in the industrial village of preston signed the first total abstinence pledge 99 years ago and, so the story goes, never bent an elbow afterwards.

The paper, used as a model for hundreds of thousands signed since then, read:

"We agree to abstain from all liquors of an intoxicating quality, whether ale, port, wine or ardent spirits, except as medicine."

The signers, now known as the famous Seven Men of Preston, next year are to be honored by all of Britain on the centenary of their pioneering movement.

The first total abstinence pledge in England was drafted by Joseph Livesay in 1832, who, in conjunction with the Seven Men of Preston, are credited with revolutionizing the British temperance movement.

He also is credited with coining the word "teetotal." While speaking at a meeting, Turner sought to emphasize the absolute nature of the new pledge and said:

"I'll be reet down and out t-t-total for ever."

The catch word proved popular immediately and recruits to the movement became known as "teetotallers."

SEATTLE MAYOR IS REMOVED BY VOTERS

Citizens Vote Frank Edwards from Municipal Post by Decisive Majority.

By The Associated Press

SEATTLE, July 14 — Seattle's "business man mayor," Frank Edwards, was voted out of office by a decisive majority in a recall election yesterday.

Appearing as a "dark horse" in 1928, Edwards was chosen to succeed Mrs. Bertha K. Landes. The recall election, which Edwards and his supporters strenuously tried to forestall, grew out of incompetency charges made against the mayor after he had dismissed J. D. Ross as head of the city light department.

The unofficial returns showed 35,637 for the recall and 21,838 against. The question was simply one of recalling the mayor, no candidates having been involved. Under the law the city council must choose a successor to Edwards within 20 days.

With President Robert Harlin of the city council in charge of the city's affairs pending selection of Edwards' successor the reinstatement of Ross, and reorganization of the board of public works were expected in the near future.

Ross, who since his dismissal in March has served as a consultant for New York state in the projected St. Lawrence river power development, returned here 10 days ago to work actively for the retirement of the mayor. Ross had been with the city light, publicly owned utility, more than a quarter of a century.

"The Seattle situation will have tremendous results," he said. "The success of the recall serves notice on friends and foes of public ownership that Seattle is definitely committed to protection and progress for its city owned utility."

Edwards is the second of the city's mayors to be retired by the recall. Hiram "Hi" Gill was recalled in 1911, although subsequently re-elected to two terms.

The charges declared "first, that Mayor Edwards gave false reasons for dismissing Mr. Ross, knowing them to be false; second, that he appointed George B. Avery superintendent of public utilities in charge of the municipal street railway system, knowing Mr. Avery to be incompent to manage the railway."

HOOVER DAM SEEN AS INDUSTRY CENTER

Engineer Predicts Transfer of Electric-Chemical Operations to West.

By International News Service

DENVER, Colo.—A shift of the center of the nation's electric-chemical industries from the Niagara Falls region to the Colorado river basin as a result of the construction of the Hoover dam was forecast by George W. Malone, state engineer of Nevada and a member of the Colorado river commission, who was in Denver recently conferring with representatives of other western states regarding power development on the Colorado.

"The Hoover dam, with its cheapest of all electric power, will mean that many industrial plants will move to the west where we have plenty of cheap sites and lower taxes," Malone said. "The electric-chemical industries for instance, are centered in Canada and in the Niagara Falls district, but they are looking for cheap power, cheap sites and lower taxes. The electric power of Niagara is more valuable for other industries. The Hoover dam will furnish power at 2½ mills a kilowatt-hour, the cheapest power in the United States."

'MASTER-MINDING' IS SUCCESS, BUT SOLONS GAIN NOTHING BY IT

Senators Break Even in Twin Bill with A's: Cards Boost Lead.

BY HERBERT W. BARKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

To a bit of strategy that worked can Walter Johnson attribute, in part at least, the failure of his Washington Senators to cut into the six-game margin the Philadelphia Athletics enjoy in the American league race.

The Senators gained an even break in a double bill with the A s yesterday, but might have won both games had Johnson not resorted to the successful "master-minding" that eventually led to Washington's downfall in the opener.

Although the score was tied at 5-5 at the end of the first seven innings, Fred Marberry had outpitched the A's southpaw ace, Bob Grove, by a wide margin. In the eighth, with two on, however Johnson pulled Marberry out of the lineup to allow Hargrave to bat for him. Hargrave made this strategy look good with a single that drove in one run. Another filtered across before the inning was over to give the Senators a two-run lead.

Earnshaw Finishes

But the A's who had made only seven hits off Marberry, fell on his successors, Bumps Hadley and Bob Burke, for seven runs on Foxx's triple, a wild pitch, three passes, Dibrell Williams' home run with the bases filled, Cochrane's double and Simmons' homer. George Earnshaw pitched the last inning and held the Senators in check to make the final score 12-7.

Alvin Crowder kept 10 hits well scattered in the second game to win 6-4, home runs by Dave Harris and Joe Kuhel accounting for five of the Senators' runs.

Cards Boost Lead

This double header completed the American league schedule for the day while in the National, the St. Louis Cardinals walloped the Chicago Cubs, 12-5, to stretch their lead to four and one-half games over the idle New York Giants. With the score tied at 2 2 after three and one-half innings, the Cardinals shelled Pat Malone and Lester Sweetland for seven runs in the fourth and added three more in the fifth. Burleigh Grimes gave the Cubs nine hits while the Cardinals collected 19. Jake Flowers, utility infielder, clouted two doubles and a triple to drive in four Cardinal runs and score two himself.

In the only other game of the day, Jim Elliott of the Phillies blanked the Pittsburgh Pirates, with five hits, 1-0. Remy Kremer also allowed only five hits but two of them were bunched in the ninth for the only run of the contest. Chuck Klein beat out an infield smash and scored on Don Hurst's double.

BY BOB KIRKPATRICK
Sports Editor, The Star

BY the simple expedient of combining seven safe hits with three infield errors of the Christian Seniors the St. Paul Lutheran softball team chalked up its eighth victory of the season yesterday and retained a one game lead in the race for the Number 2 Sunday school league pennant. The final score of the game was 6-0 for St. Paul.

"Bus" Sloat got things off to a good start in the first inning by smashing out a home run that provided what proved to be the winning run of the game. The other five scores came later but none of them meant anything as far as winning the game was concerned. Don Lindsey, brilliant young hurler of the St. Paul turned in a steady game for the winners, not allowing any Christian runner to get farther than second base. Art Amick, Christian pitcher, was not up to usual form, his slants being much less deceptive than is generally the case.

What a Beating

The United Brethren manager used three pitchers yesterday in a futile attempt to check the slugging of the First Presbyterians but how successful he was is pretty well indicated by the score 14 to 0 for the Presbies. Corrigan started on the mound for U B and was relieved by Zuspan before many innings had passed. Zuspan was in turn relieved by Bob Tuttle. The Presbyterians collected 12 hits off the offerings of the three hurlers while Shoemaker held the losers to seven safe bingles all so widely scattered they did no damage as far as scoring is concerned.

Wesley M E and Forest Lawn and Central Christian No. 1 and First Reformed put on the really tough battles of the day although none of the four are in the race for the flag. The Christian No. 1 nine edged out a 4-3 victory over First Reformed while Forest Lawn squeezed by with a 2-1 win over Wesley.

A Mound Duel

Vestal and Kellogg on the mound for Forest Lawn gave up just three safe hits good for one run while Lashey and Adams of Wesley were nearly as effective, allowing only one more. All of the scoring in this game was done early in the game, Wesley collecting its lone tally in the first and Forest Lawn crossing the plate twice in the second.

The first Reformed-Christian No. 1 game was another pitchers duel. Rank and Schwadderer started the game for the opposing teams with Melly relieving Schwadderer later in the game. Rank allowed Reformed four hits in the first five innings but weakened in the sixth and gave up four bingles that were good for three scores.

A Tight Battle

The Christians failed to garner a single safe hit in the first four frames but scored a pair of runs in the sixth by virtue of one hit, one walk and one error. A walk and a hit brought in the other two tallies in the seventh and spelled defeat for Reformed.

4 Protests Are Heard by City Softball Board

Four protests were heard last night by the city recreational ball commission sitting in a special meeting. Two of them had been heard previously and were reheard while two were brought up yesterday for the first time. Two were allowed and two were thrown out.

The two protests which were reheard yesterday concerned the game in which Trinity Baptist opposed Lee Street Presbyterians recently and the other a game between Gas company and Silk Mill played several weeks ago. The first named is in the No 1 Sunday School league the other in the Industrial circuit.

Both of these protests were sustained by the board, the original rulings having been made last week. The Trinity Baptist-Lee Street game will be played over starting with the fourth inning with two men out, the score 4-1 for Trinity, and a man on first base. The Gas Company-Silk Mill game will start with the score 3-1 in favor of the Gas company, two men out, men on first and third.

The protest entered by the K. of P. concerning a game played in the Commercial league with the Kappas was not allowed. The protest entered by Epworth Seniors against Epworth Bishops also was thrown out. The Seniors had no one present to present their case.

Only one other matter of any importance other than the protests was heard at the meeting. Gayle Owens, formerly a member of the United Brethren Sunday school team was reinstated after having been ineligible for more than a year.

Not Afraid of City Any More

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO Vic Frasier, Texas youth who fled the White Sox camp last year because the big city was too wild for him, seems to have become acclimated.

VIC FRASIER

Frasier, Manager Donie Bush has contended, needed only a change of pace to mix with his speed and a change of heart in his attitude toward the metropolis to make him a winning pitcher. In his last few starts he has exhibited these factors, and with marked success.

On May 1 Frasier turned in a win, but then the old homesickness for Mount Enterprise, Tex, gripped him and he was ineffective until June 15. Since then he has decided Chicago isn't so wild, after all, and, mixing in a few slow balls, he has fooled plenty of batters.

CANZONERI SMASHES WAY TO DECISION IN COASTAL TITLE BOUT

Midget Wolgast Also Defends Crown Successfully; Schmeling Lauded in Berlin.

By The Associated Press

LOS ANGELES, July 14—Tony Canzoneri smashed his way to a decision over Cecil Payne, the Louisville, Ky., looper to hold safe his junior welterweight championship of the world here last night before 20,000 persons.

Crossing a terrific right to the jaw, the swarthy Italian floored Payne a minute after the first round opened, but he seemed to tire at the finish as the Kentucky challenger crashed over lefts and rights.

The bout progressed at a tame pace, with the crowd calling for action during the closing stages. The Associated Press card gave Canzoneri six rounds and Payne three.

NEW YORK, July 14—Midget Wolgast, speedy Philadelphia who is recognized in some states as flyweight champion, clearly has demonstrated his right to the crown so far as Ruby (Dark Cloud Bradley of Holyoke, Mass., is concerned.

BERLIN, July 14—Max Schmeling is back home again, this time fully recognized by German boxing experts as the legitimate heavyweight champion of the world, and a "credit to the fatherland."

"Der Maxie," arriving in Berlin by air from Bremen yesterday, found an enthusiastic crowd of 8,000 to cheer the champion who proved his right to the crown by whipping W. L (Young) Stribling so easily in Cleveland ten days ago.

"I'm glad to be back home and I'm glad to have had a chance to prove myself a genuine champion," Schmeling said.

EDDIE MAUTZ

Last season the Epworth Bishops (then the Juniors) floundered around all year, playing sloppy ball and missing the cellar post by only the narrowest of margins. This season the same team is battling for the lead in the No 1 Sunday school circuit.

Too great a share of the credit for this improved showing cannot be given to Eddie Mautz who has shown a decided improvement in pitching form this year. Mautz has hurled steady ball all season, winning six and losing three games to date, two of his losses coming not as a result of poor pitching but by errors of his team mates.

Eddie has allowed an average of less than six hits a game and has struck out 28 men. He will meet one of his biggest tests of the season today when he faces the hard hitting Calvary team on the Shovel diamond. The winner of this game will go into first place in the league.

Cleveland Declines Use of Stadium to Indians at Price Offered.

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, O.—Failure of city council to act Monday night on legislation to grant the Cleveland baseball club a lease on the new Cleveland Stadium for its home games made it virtually certain that the Indians will not play in the huge arena, this season. City Manager Daniel E. Morgan informed the club that the concensus of council members was that the rental bid was "lower than the city could accept." He added that council had, without a formal vote, asked that he submit to the baseball company a counter proposal "which would undoubtedly call for an increase over club offers."

In response to a question whether the club had made its best offer Alva Bradley president, said its bid "cannot be altered," and that when city officials see the picture as it really is, we can talk business.

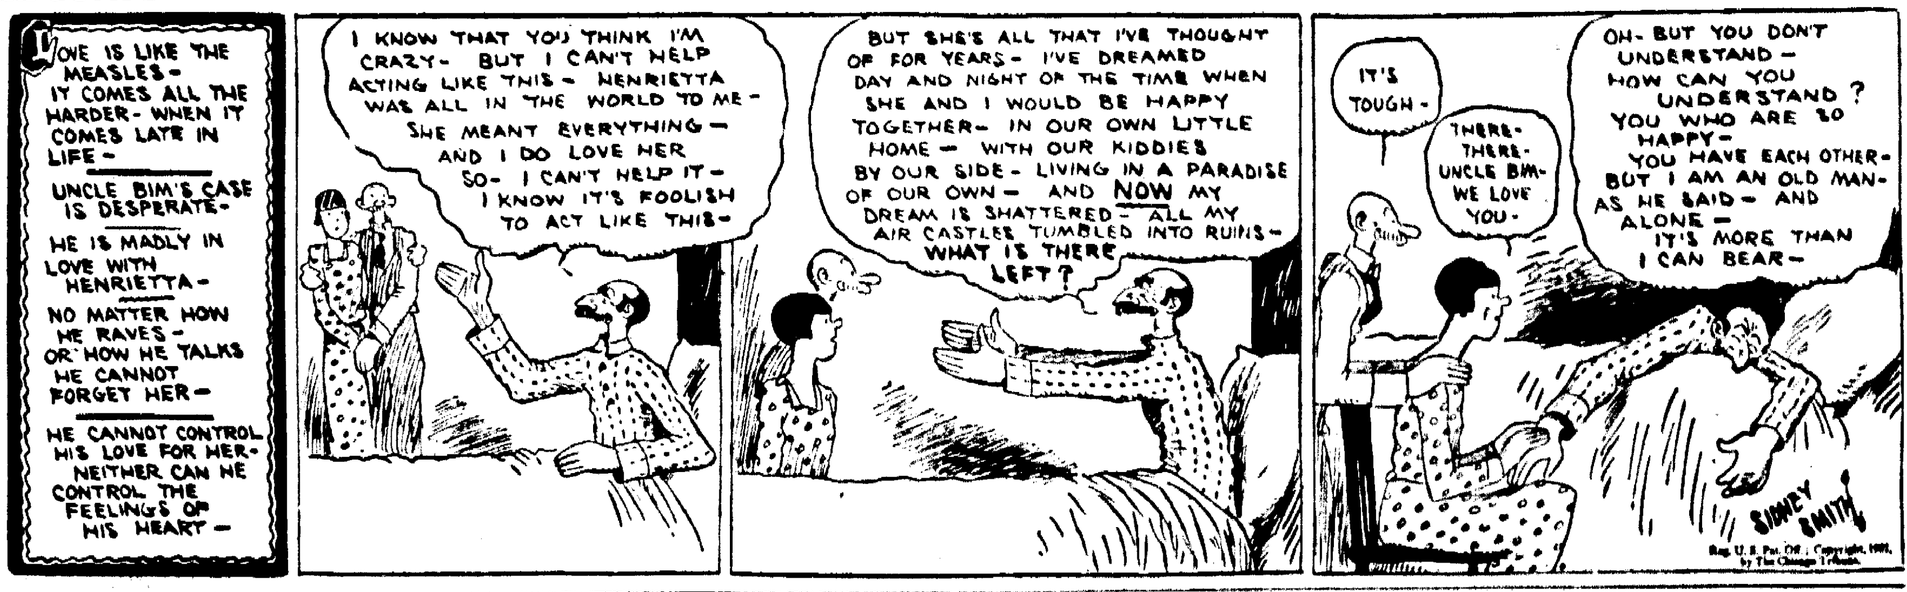
THE GUMPS — BY SIDNEY SMITH



LOVE IS LIKE THE MEASLES - IT COMES ALL THE HARDER - WHEN IT COMES LATE IN LIFE -
UNCLE BIM'S CASE IS DESPERATE -
HE IS MADLY IN LOVE WITH HENRIETTA -
NO MATTER HOW HE RAVES - OR HOW HE TALKS HE CANNOT FORGET HER -
HE CANNOT CONTROL HIS LOVE FOR HER - NEITHER CAN HE CONTROL THE FEELINGS OF HIS HEART -
I KNOW THAT YOU THINK I'M CRAZY - BUT I CAN'T HELP ACTING LIKE THIS - HENRIETTA WAS ALL IN THE WORLD TO ME - SHE MEANT EVERYTHING - AND I DO LOVE HER SO - I CAN'T HELP IT - I KNOW IT'S FOOLISH TO ACT LIKE THIS -
BUT SHE'S ALL THAT I'VE THOUGHT OF FOR YEARS - I'VE DREAMED DAY AND NIGHT OF THE TIME WHEN SHE AND I WOULD BE HAPPY TOGETHER - IN OUR OWN LITTLE HOME - WITH OUR KIDDIES BY OUR SIDE - LIVING IN A PARADISE OF OUR OWN - AND NOW MY DREAM IS SHATTERED - ALL MY AIR CASTLES TUMBLED INTO RUINS - WHAT IS THERE LEFT?
IT'S TOUGH -
THERE - THERE - UNCLE BIM - WE LOVE YOU -
OH - BUT YOU DON'T UNDERSTAND - HOW CAN YOU UNDERSTAND? YOU WHO ARE SO HAPPY - YOU HAVE EACH OTHER - BUT I AM AN OLD MAN - AS HE SAID - AND ALONE - IT'S MORE THAN I CAN BEAR -

Gentlemen:
I welcome this opportunity to put on record the benefits I have enjoyed from using ZZZ tablets purchased at your drugstore.
About three years ago last September, my physician advised me that my complication of gall, liver and appendix ailments had reached a point that my only hope for recovery rested with the success of a serious abdominal operation. His examinations showed my physical condition to be such that the hope of a successful operation appeared extremely doubtful.
With this discouraging prospect before me, I tried taking ZZZ tablets and have continued them until this time. I feel that I am completely cured of all my gall and liver ailments and am ready to verify this letter at any time and recommend your remedy to any who may inquire.
Yours very truly,
(Signed)
Mrs. J. W. Tucker,
Route 2,
Marion, Ohio.
Mrs. Tucker is not alone in her experience with ZZZ tablets. We have many customers willing to testify to their excellent qualities in cleaning and stimulating a sluggish or ailing liver and gall bladder. One month's treatment in a $3.75 box.

RENTS AUTO HERE, FAILS TO RETURN

Local Taxi Co. Asks Police Aid in Locating Missing Machine.

Officials of the Yellow Taxi Cab Co., have asked police to help locate a Ford coupe which they say was rented to a stranger yesterday morning and which had not been returned yet today.

From the description furnished by the taxi company, police believe the car was rented by the young man who sometime during Sunday night broke into a filling station at Delaware.

Officials from the sheriff's office in Delaware traced the man to this city yesterday where the trail was lost. Police believe that he made his escape in the car rented from the taxi company. Delaware officials described him as being 23 years of age, six feet tall, light complexioned and wearing a light suit.

The license number of the missing Ford is 96-920 and motor number A3441081

STOCKS DROP FEW POINTS

Acute Foreign Situation Continues To Retard Progress of Market.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, July 14—World financial markets reflected the paralyzing influences of the acute banking situation in central Europe today.

Security trading in the New York market was extremely sluggish with stocks developing a rather heavy tone and bonds scarcely active enough to establish a trend. Wall Street was only partially reassured by a statement issued by the Bank of England at Basel, and the renewal of the $100,000,000 loan to the Reichsbank. Bankers are inclined to await developments on the reopening of the German banks before passing judgment on the situation.

Changes in much of the stock list were limited to small fractions of a point or two, although several prominent issues lost around 2 points were registered by U. S. Steel, American Can, Radio Corp. and Eastman. Losses of about a point were registered by American Telephone, Consolidated Gas, Bethlehem Steel, Anaconda, Columbia Gas & Elec., Manville, International Harvester and American Smelting.

Banking opinion regarding the German crisis remained highly conservative. The renewal of the $100,000,000 which was to expire Thursday had been accepted as a matter of course, in view of the severe strain upon the Reichsbank, which repayment under present circumstances would have entailed. There was no unanimity of opinion in Wall Street as to what success the Reichsbank may have in raising further credits abroad under present conditions.

The spreading of the banking crisis to Hungary was pointed to here as showing the need for as early relief as can be arranged.

Notice is hereby given that Moses Fasnacht has been appointed and qualified as Executor of the Estate of William H. Jones, late of Marion County, deceased.

Dated at Marion, Ohio, this 11th day of July, 1931.

Today in Marion Markets

Groceries, Produce, Meat, Grain, Livestock

Although late cherries are now ripening, dealers were carrying but few today. Growers advertising direct to consumers were asking from $2 to $2.50 a bushel. Due to the unusual heavy crop of the earlier varieties, the demand for the later cherries is not so great as in former years, dealers say.

Raspberries were scarce today, only a few were being carried by dealers that were selling at from 20 to 25 cents for the black and 25 to 35 for the red. The absence of rain during the past week has dried up much of the berry crop. New apples were more plentiful today and were selling readily at three pounds for 25 cents.

New peas were also scarce due to the absence of rain. The few being carried by leaders today were of inferior quality and were selling at three pounds for 25 cents. Green beans were not so plentifulu today and were selling at two and three pounds for 25 cents. Roasting ears have again disappeared from the market, a few were on the market last week that sold slowly at four ears for 25 cents.

GERMAN AID HELPS WHEAT

Prices Higher on Report of Financial Developments in Foreign Nation.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, July 14—Grains scored price upturns early today, helped by comparative firmness of the Liverpool wheat market, and of New York stocks. German financial developments were given a bullish construction and there was a let-up in selling pressure on cereals. Opening unchanged to half cent higher, wheat later held near to the initial limits. Corn started unchanged to ⅛ advance and continued to point upward.

Moderately active commission house buying of wheat accompanied price upturns by lulls in demand ensued except on setbacks. Firmness of Liverpool quotations was ascribed both to some hopeful aspects of the German financial outlook and to a natural reaction from recent severe breaks. Crop damage reports from domestic spring wheat territory were also current, including South Dakota advices that in some sections wheat although having made plenty of straw almost a failure so far as grain was concerned, a result of excessive hot weather two weeks ago.

Illinois reports said price collapses of late putting wheat down to 35 cents in the country had dried up offerings, even where threshers were getting under full swing, and that little new wheat would be marketed unless at advances. An opposite factor was word that Russia had chartered an additional 70,000 tons of vessel room for grain exports. This increased Russian charterings to 1,000,000 tons, equal approximately to 37,300,000 bushels. Corn and oats followed wheat.

Provisions sympathized with grains.

DIDN'T HAVE TO ACT TO WIN FAME

Jackie Cooper Just Himself in Role of "Skippy"

By The Associated Press

HOLLYWOOD — His name is Jackie, but it might be "Skippy," he is so like the character that brought him screen fame.

He is Jackie Cooper, Hollywood's newest and youngest star, who, until a few months ago, was just another child actor. He differed from most of them in that he worked frequently.

Three and a half years ago, four-year-old Jackie began his career by playing a small role with Lloyd Hamilton. Other pictures, most of them comedies, followed at intervals during the next two years.

Came the talkies and the discovery that Jackie had a voice. He sang in one of the early revues, although ill with mumps.

Couldn't Be Stopped

"Good troupers don't' stop for nothin', especially a little somethin' like mumps," he explains. "Even mumps couldn't make my voice any worse."

Meanwhile the search was on for a youngster to play the part of "Skippy" in the picture of that name. Months went by as hundreds of children were tested. None was the type wanted.

It was inevitable that the search would get around to Jackie. It did, the picture was made and it made Jackie. Nearly everyone agrees "Skippy" is one of the most human and appealing child pictures ever filmed.

Just Acted Natural

Jackie contributed more than his share to its success. The story was tailor-made for him. He didn't act; he was just himself.

Already under contract to a producer, for a mere $100 a week, it looked as though that was all Jackie would get for the next five years, despite the increased demand for his services.

But another company wanted Jackie so much that it bought his five-year $100-a-week contract. Everyone concerned profited, most of all Jackie, whose salary increased $1,400 a week.

Jackie is a normal, healthy lad who gets into as much mischief as any other youth his age. Mentally he seems older than his years, and next fall he will be in grade 4-A. He likes guns but the most dangerous weapon he owns is an air rifle.

Mother a Musician

His mother, formerly Mabel Deonard, was a vaudeville pianist; his father died when Jackie was two. Jackie was born in Los Angeles on Sept. 15, 1923.

His hair is straw blond, his eyes hazel, and his flat little nose a mass of freckles.

When he grows up he thinks he'll be a "motorman or else take Lindbergh's place, if there's any place left for a guy to fly to."

Jackie Cooper didn't have to act in "Skippy," the film that made him a star with a $1,500 weekly salary. He was merely himself, a fun-loving mischievous boy. He's not yet eight years old, but has been in pictures for nearly four years.

PLANS HIGH SOARING ROCKETS AND PLANES

Massachusetts Professor Hopes To Pierce Atmosphere 250 Miles Up.

By United Press

ROSWELL, N. M.—New experiments in rockets and airplane motors to enable the study of the stratosphere are being made here by Dr. Robert H. Goddard, professor of physics at Clark university, Worcester, Mass.

For the last year he has been experimenting here. He selected Roswell because of atmospheric conditions and the absence of storm areas. He is working under the direction of the Guggenheim Foundation.

A new type of airplane motor that will enable airplanes to travel in rare atmospheres and at higher speed than ever has been attained has been developed by Dr. Goddard and patented.

"It has been estimated that above 600 miles an hour, rocket propulsion for airplanes will be more effective than any other type and it is on this theory that I have built and patented this motor," he said.

"Although the rocket jets themselves have more efficiency than either the Diesel engine or the steam turbine, this efficiency can not be utilized at lower, or present airplane speeds, because a large part of the energy passes off in the jet and comparatively little is given to the plane. The present invention, involving the use of a turbine and propeller, in addition to rocket jets, overcomes the disadvantage which exists under 600 miles an hour."

Dr. Goddard's rockets will carry thermometers, barometers, electrical measuring apparatus, air traps to collect samples of upper air strata and other specially designed apparatus to gather information from the stratosphere. Propelled by a newly developed liquid

REAPPRAISEMENT OF MARION LAND BEGUN

Corps of Workers Meets with County Auditor; Given Free Rein.

The reappraisement of Marion land will get under way tonight when five appraisers meet with County Auditor Earl E. Thomas in the courthouse. Most of the reappraisement of land for taxing purposes will be done in the office, as the appraisers are thoroughly familiar with the location of most property and need not view it to fix its listing value.

In an instruction meeting yesterday afternoon Auditor Thomas explained the procedure to be followed, and gave the appraisers their maps. Beginning with the highest priced property in the heart of the city, the appraisers will work outward toward the edge of the city, decreasing the land values, Auditor Thomas said. No instructions calling for a reduction or increase in valuations were given.

L. J. Cleminshaw of Cleveland, who is assisting Auditor Thomas in the appraisement of utilities and factories, has started his task after a preliminary conference with the auditor.

15 SPEED RECORDS SET BY OUTBOARDS

Boat Drivers Perform Well in Preparation for Finale in October

NEW YORK—Fifteen world outboard speed records already have fallen this year in the grand scramble which will continue through the summer until the finale of the 1931 outboard season at the national championships, Oakland, Calif., next October.

Eastern drivers, through their eight new marks set at Worcester, Mass., Memorial day, have an edge in the number of world's records held, with 11 to their credit. Pacific coast drivers hold nine speed titles and the remaining four are credited to the mid-west. The sooth lost its lone record-holder when the Class C, Division II competition mark held by George Cost, of Birmingham, Ala., was broken at Worcester.

Individual championship honors are well divided, with four drivers each holding three records, or half of the 24 titles recognized under the 1931 rules. Roger Swartwood of Los Angeles holds three in the amateur division, and Ray Pregenzer, Jr., of Antioch, Ill., and Francis Brobeil, Buffalo, N. Y., three each in Division II. Bertram Steacie of Worcester, Mass., holds one amateur record, established last year, and two made in the professional division at Worcester.

Only one woman driver remains among the record holders, Mrs. Veryl Pantages of Los Angeles, who replaced Mrs. Mildred Hickey, of Shrewsbury, Mass., as the Class A, Division I, one-mile champion. Hilda Mueller of Bay City, Mich., has been both of her Class A, Division II records broken this year and H. G. Ferguson of Elsinore, Calif., has lost two of the three marks he held only a month ago.
